

Distressed Judge Urbom Won't Dismiss Cases

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Openly distressed at the treatment of Indians, U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom has nevertheless denied a request that Wounded Knee cases be dismissed.

Defendants claimed the U.S. courts had no jurisdiction over the cases because the event took place on the soil of a sovereign nation, the Sioux Nation established by the Fort Laramie of 1868.

No Longer Sovereign

"The Sioux people were once a fully sovereign nation. They are not now and have not been for a long time," Urbom wrote in a 10-page memorandum explaining his ruling.

"The conclusion that Indian tribes do not have complete sovereignty is irresistible, if I am to follow an unbroken line of decisions of the United States Supreme Court, extending from the early 19th Century until the year before last," Urbom wrote.

"The defendants recognize that the developed law is squarely in opposition to their legal position here. They therefore attack that law and the reasoning behind it as being arrogant and unjust. . . . and they ask that this court repudiate that law.

"It cannot be denied that official policy of the United States until at least the late 19th Century was impelled by a resolute will to control substantial territory for its westward-moving people.

"Whatever obstructed the movement, including the Indians, was to be — and was — shoved aside, dominated, or destroyed.

'Shriveled, Disemboweled'

"Wars, disease, treaties pocked by duplicity, and decimation of the buffalo by whites drove the Sioux to reservations, shriveled their population and disemboweled their corporate body. They were left a people unwillingly dependent in fact upon the United States.

"It is an ugly history. White America may retch at the recollection of it.

"They may also ask themselves questions: How much of the sins of our forefathers must we rightly bear? What precisely do we do now? Shall we pretend that history never was? Can we restore the disemboweled or push the waters of the river upstream to where they used to be?

"Who is to decide? White Americans? The Native Americans? All, together? A federal judge? 'Who speaks for the Sioux? Those traditional people who testified here? Those Sioux of a different mind who did not testify? The officials elected by the Sioux on the eight reservations?

"Feeling what was wrong does not describe what is right. Anguish about yesterday does not alone make wise answers for tomorrow. Somehow, all the aching of the soul must coalesce and with the wisdom of the mind develop a single national policy for governmental action."

Whether or not the Sioux will ever again be fully sovereign, Urbom said, depends on the actions of Congress and the President.

"I feel no shirking of duty in saying that formulation of such national policy should not be made by a federal judge or the handful who may review his decision on appeal," Urbom wrote.

One of the reasons behind that feeling, Urbom said, is that "a strength of the elective process is that the citizenry may choose those who mirror their thoughts and the amalgam of those thus elected is more likely to reflect the conscience and wisdom of the people than a few who are appointed."

Investigative Tools

Another reason, Urbom said, is that "legislative bodies have investigative tools for, listening to a wider community than do courts for ferreting out the deeper consciousness of the body politic."

In addition, Urbom said, relations with American Indians are rooted in international relations developed by executive heads of nations, and judges do not have the power to set national policy.

The Sioux do have a residue of sovereignty, part of which reserves them partial criminal jurisdiction, Urbom said.

Under the Fort Laramie Treaty of 1868, Urbom said the Sioux did retain the authority to punish their own. However, in part of that area, Urbom said, Congress has enacted legislation which "overcomes" the treaty.

U.S. Control Recognized

The treaty, he said, does recognize U.S. sovereignty over whites on Indian land. He left unanswered the question of whether the Sioux have jurisdiction over crimes involving Indians who are members of tribes who did not sign the treaty.

The U.S. also has jurisdiction to try Indians accused of violating general criminal laws because the 1924 Congress granted citizenship to all Indians, Urbom said.

"Even if a reservation were considered a completely sovereign nation, the United States Congress has authority to make criminal laws binding its citizens while in that nation . . ." Urbom said.

65 Cases Remain

All of the remaining Wounded Knee cases, involving about 65 defendants, fall into categories in which the U.S. assumed jurisdiction after the treaty was made or in which the Treaty of 1868 gave the U.S. jurisdiction, Urbom said.

"When the Supreme Court speaks clearly, I must honor the statement or be as unfaithful to my duty to the law as the United States has been to its promises to the American Indians," Urbom wrote.

"In the event the Supreme Court concludes that it can and should change the law regarding sovereignty of and treaties with Indian tribes, the record made in this hearing will assist in providing a basis.

Justification Grounds

"For example, one of the grounds of justification used by Chief Justice Marshall for reducing the sovereignty of Indians was that the Indians were 'fierce savages, whose occupation was war

"The record here should go far to dispel that assertion. The Sioux, and undoubtedly many of the other tribes as well, had a highly developed governmental system, a religion proclaiming the sacredness of all nature and life, and a disposition toward peacefulness at least as effective as that of the white intruders.

"It may also be that the hearing just concluded will serve to make the citizenry of the United States more aware and more willing to grapple with the hard decisions that need to be made.

"If nothing else, perhaps it can help us learn to listen," Urbom wrote.

'No Bond= No Contest' —Douglas

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas Friday told state senators that, in his opinion, Terry Carpenter "no longer has a right to have his (election) contest heard" since he failed to meet statutory requirements for the posting of a bond.

"It is our considered legal opinion that because said bond has not been filed by the contestant, the Legislature does not have to hear the election contest," Douglas wrote a special legislative committee considering the 48th District challenge.

Carpenter failed to file a security bond within 10 days after he filed his challenge of the election of Sen. William Nichol of Scottsbluff, as required by law.

The bond would pledge payment of all costs in the election contest in the event that Nichol was subsequently confirmed the winner of the legislative race.

Response Asked

The special committee, headed by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, decided to ask legal counsel for both Carpenter and Nichol to respond to the Douglas letter by Monday at 5 p.m.

The seven-member committee will convene at 4:30 p.m.

Committee members provided no clues as to whether they would recommend that the Legislature close its books on the case as a result of the statutory omission.

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha said he, for one, is "not sure" the attorney general's opinion changes the committee's role since its assignment was to consider the challenge and report its findings to the full Legislature.

One of Carpenter's lawyers, former Sen. Richard Fellman of Omaha, attended Friday's committee meeting and said he will have no response to the Douglas communication until he has had an opportunity to study it.

Continuation Seen

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha also sat in on the committee session, and afterwards told newsmen he believes the contest will continue.

"The Legislature decided to hear the contest and resolve it," he said. "A technically is not going to prevent this from occurring."

Chambers was the senator who made the successful motion to send the challenge to a special committee for consideration.

Pending replies from the lawyers, the committee continued the process of hearing the challenge.

The election ballots were picked up by the State Patrol in Scottsbluff Friday morning and transported to Lincoln. And depositions in the case are still due in Lincoln next Tuesday.

The Douglas letter was delivered to Warner in response to committee questions concerning the liability for costs of the election contest proceedings.

Contest Dismissed

Douglas cited a court case in which an election contest was dismissed because the contestant failed to file a bond within the statutory time period.

Although that was a contest before a court rather than the Legislature, the attorney general noted, "the same requirements are placed upon an election contest before the Legislature as are placed upon an election contest in court."

Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island subsequently won committee approval to ask the attorney general's office to research past contests before the Legislature to see if all statutory bond requirements were met.

SNORKEL TOO LOW . . . firemen can't see onto roof.

Damage To Federal Bldg. Minimized By Quick Action

Quick response by the Lincoln Fire Department saved the new Federal Building at 15th and O from what could have been very extensive damage Friday night. District Fire Chief Wendell Malcolm said the height of the building posed a problem to the firefighters, who could not get a truly effective stream of water directed at the blaze on the roof.

Most of the water used to extinguish the fire was provided by the snorkel truck, which has a maximum height of 85 feet. The problem was compounded by cars parked along the street, keeping firemen from getting closer to the building.

Problem For Ladder
Cars also caused difficulties for the aerial ladder, which could only reach 82 feet up the building because of the distance it had to stay away from the side.

Fire Inspector Fred Soflin said the fire apparently started in a barrel on the roof containing trash.

Soflin said it was his opinion that workmen had been burning trash in the barrel earlier.

The inspector said that if they were using the barrel to burn trash, they were doing so illegally.

The fire damaged a large area of tar which had already been applied to the roof, roofing material and a stack of wood paneling, Soflin said.

The stone facing on the west side of the building was chipped by the intense heat and the exterior of one corner of the penthouse was also damaged.

Visible Blocks Away
Firemen said the alarm was turned in by a passerby who called a telephone operator. They said flames could be seen from four blocks away at the time the alarm came in.

The 291,000-square-foot Federal Building was first approved by the General Services Administration in 1965. Its scheduled May completion would be one month shy of 10 years later.

After years of hassling with federal budgets, Nebraska First District Rep. Charles Thone and other congressmen in 1971 proposed a lease-purchase arrangement for 41 federal buildings including Lincoln's. In 1972 Congress at last authorized the Lincoln project and 62 others awaiting funding.

Ground was officially broken in November 1972 and demolition soon got underway.

The general construction contract was awarded to Morrison-Knudson Co. of Boise, Idaho, the lowest of 10 bidders at $14,850. The cornerstone was officially laid last October.

$50 Million Cost

The entire two-block complex — the two-story parking garage south of O St. and the five-floor office building north of it — will cost an estimated $50 million, a figure which includes land acquisition, clearing, construction and interest on debts.

Nineteen principal federal government offices and a host of lesser offices will be housed in the building.

Park Committee Opposes Adding Of Norris Home

Omaha (AP) — The Midwest Regional Advisory Committee to the National Park Service Friday opposed adding the George W. Norris home in McCook to the national park system.

A Park Service study team, in a report issued last October, said the home deserved development to "its greatest potential" as a memorial to the life and career of the famed Nebraska Senator. But it recommended the home continue to be administered by the Nebraska State Historical Society.

British Move Spurs Protest

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Violent anti-British demonstrations broke out across Cyprus on Friday, leaving one person dead and 20 injured. At least 17 cars were gutted and the demonstrators burned effigies of Queen Elizabeth II and British and Turkish flags, authorities said.

Thousands of Greek Cypriots joined in the demonstrations, called to protest Britain's decision to permit the transfer of 10,000 Turkish Cypriot refugees from British bases on Cyprus to Turkey. The Cyprus government says the British move supports what it claims are Turkish plans to partition the island.

Officials said the British services stores in Limassol were burned to the ground. A new Greek Cypriot organization calling itself "United Cyprus" telephoned newspapers claiming it started the blaze to protest the British decision on the refugees. Unofficial estimates put the damage at nearly a quarter million dollars.

About 2,000 students who reached the British base at Akrotiri clashed with British troops in anti-riot gear who fired tear gas and turned fire hoses on the demonstrators when they started stoning them and setting fire to British vehicles.

A base spokesman said one demonstrator was killed accidentally when he was knocked down by a British armored car by the main entrance to the base. The victim was identified as Panicos Demetriou, 18, a refugee from the Turkish occupied east coast town of Famagusta. The spokesman said 20 other Greek Cypriots and British servicemen were injured in the clashes.

At least 15 cars were destroyed at the Akrotiri base, in the southwestern tip of the island, police sources said. Two other British Land-Rovers were set ablaze in a British camp on snow-covered Mt. Troodos.

Thousands of other students staged demonstrations in the main towns of Greek Cypriot-controlled Cyprus, chanting slogans and waving banners reading: "Out with the bases," "British go home," and "What about the Greek Cypriot refugees?"

In the capital of Nicosia, 5,000 demonstrators blocked the main city square all morning. They burned an effigy of Queen Elizabeth and British and Turkish flags.

Cyprus Foreign Minister John Christofides summoned the British high commissioner to Nicosia, Sir Stephen Oliver, for the third straight day to deliver a fresh verbal protest, officials said.

Informed sources said the Cyprus government is angry because it believes the Turkish refugees will eventually be transferred to the Turkish occupied part of the island to take over the homes and property of 200,000 Greek Cypriot refugees who are not allowed to return to their homes by the Turkish occupation army.

The sources said Christofides also complained to Oliver that the use of British bases for the evacuation of the Turkish Cypriots violates the treaties governing the existence of the British bases on the island. The evacuation is set to begin Saturday.

Turkish Cypriot leader Raouf Denktash and Glafcos Clerides, president of the Greek Cypriot House of Representatives, said they would not be discussing the evacuation of refugees from British bases during their current peace talks in Nicosia.

"This is not our problem. They are people living on English territory, in England in fact," Denktash said. Britain retains sovereignty over her military bases on Cyprus under the 1960 treaty establishing independence for the former British colony.

Denktash said the decision concerning the refugee transfer was reached between the British and Turkish governments and Greek Cypriots should not make "too much fuss."

The Turkish Foreign Ministry in Ankara denied reports that Turks were considering giving up territory in northern Cyprus to Greek Cypriots or withdraw their troops to the north of a line between Famagusta and Nicosia.

South Viets Launch Push

From Press Reports

Saigon, South Vietnam — A 2,000-man South Vietnamese force spearheaded by more than 50 armored vehicles launched a counteroffensive along the Cambodian border Friday.

The operation is designed to block a North Vietnamese division from thrusting across, the western Mekong Delta and capturing another province, the commanding general said.

In Cambodia, Communist-led rebels ambushed a 14-ship resupply convoy attempting to run a gauntlet of fire down the Mekong River with desperately needed U.S. supplies for besieged Neak Luong. U.S. officials were reported considering a Berlin-type airlift to break the blockade of Phnom Penh.

The convoy attempt was abandoned after three small ships loaded with ammunition and artillery were sunk, military officers said. All other vessels "were hit, more or less seriously," one said, after leaving Phnom Penh for Neak Luong, 35 miles to the south.

Three sailors were killed, 45 wounded and six missing in the heavy attacks, officers said.

U.S. officials admitted increasing concern over rebel dominance of the vital river link with South Vietnam. It was the major corridor of supplying beleaguered Cambodia with everything from gasoline to food until it was closed 10 days ago by gunfire from its shores. The fall of Neak Luong would completely seal off the river as a supply route.

Field reports said the South Vietnamese force met stiff resistance as it sought to retake one of three outposts overrun by troops of a North Vietnamese division earlier this month.

A South Vietnamese A37 bomber and a helicopter were shot down supporting the drive 55 miles west of Saigon and within one mile of the Cambodian border, field reports said. Heavy South Vietnamese air and artillery strikes were reported in the region.

Brig. Gen. Huynh Van Lac, commander of South Vietnam's 9th Infantry Division, told newsmen that about 5,000 North Vietnamese troops from the 5th Division operating from Cambodian bases in the southern part of the Parrot's Beak that juts into South Vietnam west of Saigon launched their campaign last month.

Elsewhere, Viet Cong forces attacked government positions in the Saigon region for the second straight day.

Housing Starts Slide; Ford Recalls Workers

By The Associated Press

The Ford Motor Co. said Friday that it is recalling nearly 40,000 idled workers to their jobs. But new layoffs in other industries and statistics showing a sharp decline in home construction in December provided fresh signs of the recession.

The Commerce Department said the number of new housing units started last month dropped to its lowest level in eight years. The department also said that the number of privately owned new houses and apartments started in 1974 was 35% less than in 1973.

There were several moves aimed at spurring business: New York's First National City bank cut its prime lending rate again and a Michigan legislator said he will introduce legislation providing a tax credit for new car buyers.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, acting in response to requests by airlines faced with declining passenger loads, approved a limited discount air fare plan proposed by American Airlines. The CAB rejected more liberal plans suggested by other carriers.

The American Airlines plan calls for a 20 to 25 % discount on day flights of more than 1,500 miles. It carries several restrictions, including a requirement that tickets be purchased at least 14 days in advance of the flight.

Ford Motor Co., which announced on Thursday a rebate program to boost lagging sales, said, 39,900 hourly employees who have been on layoff since Jan. 10 will be recalled to work on Monday.

At the same time, the auto maker announced other production schedule changes that will result in either temporary or indefinite layoffs for 22,875 hourly workers at a variety of facilities next week. A company spokesman said the total of workers laid off indefinitely now comes to 33,350.

Both Ford and Chrysler are offering rebates to buyers of certain new model cars as they try to boost sales, off about 30% from 1974 levels. General Motors has declined comment on the rebate plans.

The Converse Rubber Co. announced its Berlin, N.H., plant will close for one week beginning Feb. 14 and may close for an additional week starting March 21. More than 1,000 workers are employed at the plant, making sneakers and other rubber footwear.

Rep. Marvin L. Esch, R-Mich., said he will introduce a bill on Monday that would give an income tax credit of up to $250 to anyone buying a new U.S. or Canadian-made car this year.

In other economy developments Friday: —The Commerce Department said the United States appears headed for a trade deficit nearly equal to last year's. Final figures on the 1974 trade balance have not been released, but the deficit is currently running at $2.2 billion.

—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he will fight President Ford's proposed crude oil taxes because they will cost consumers $25 billion a year. Jackson said the proposal will increase unemployment, bankruptcy and inflation.

—The President will make a series of trips around the country to explain his economy-energy program, Nessen said.

—Despite adverse reaction, the Ford administration has decided to make only minor changes in its plans to sharply increase the cost of food stamps, the Agriculture Department announced.

Jordanians Greet Faisal

By The Associated Press

Thunderously chanting "save Jerusalem," 50,000 Jordanians gave a tumultuous welcome Friday to Saudi Arabia's King Faisal, the oil-rich backer of Arab armies who has vowed to pray in Jerusalem before he dies but only after the Arabs liberate their quarter of the Holy City.

Wearing a traditional white robe and head-dress, the 71-year-old Faisal embraced Jordan's King Hussein, decked out in a field marshal's uniform, as a 21-gun salute boomed a royal welcome at Amman airport.

In Washington, Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said Friday that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has accepted "in principle" an invitation to visit Israel as soon as he can to work for another interim agreement with Egypt. After three days of talks with President Ford, Kissinger and other American officials, Allon said he leaves with "a notion" that Egypt may be ready to begin talks on an agreement.

Israel has offered, through Kissinger, to withdraw some 30 miles eastward in Sinai in exchange for political concessions by Egypt leading toward acceptance of the Jewish state.

The Jordanians slaughtered four camels outside the Amman airport lounge in homage to Faisal, who also holds the title "Protector of Islam's Holy Shrines." The Saudi monarch flew in from Damascus, where thousands more cheered him and threw slaughtered sheep in his path as a sign of tribute.

A communique issued after he left the Syrian capital said Faisal pledged a gift of $150 million for Syria's war effort and to rebuild damage caused by Israel during the October fighting, and a loan of $200 million for economic development projects.

In other Middle East developments: —Israeli and Lebanese gunners traded fire across their border for the second straight day. The pro-Palestinian Beirut newspaper Al Yom reported that Palestinian guerrillas trained in Syria have moved into the Arkoub region of southern Lebanon to defend their stronghold against Israeli attacks.

—Yasir Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, went to Arkoub on Friday and later held a one-hour meeting with President Suleiman Franjieh.

—Palestinian sources in Cairo said Friday that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has invited Arafat to Cairo for talks. The invitation follows Arafat's expression of fears that Egypt and Jordan might separately agree to unilateral accords with Israel. Sadat has reaffirmed his rejection of such a deal.

—Pentagon sources at Washington said the United States has agreed to sell some antitank missiles to the strategically located oil producing sultanate of Oman.

New York Times News Summary

- Arms Accord Support Asked
Washington — Three influential senators asked for congressional support Friday for the Vladivostok nuclear arms accord with the Soviet Union and urged the administration to go further and negotiate a reduction in nuclear weapons. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger "welcomed" the proposals by Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, Charles Mathias and Walter F. Mondale, which was offered as the "advice" of the Senate.
- Court Plan Backed
Washington — A government commission of judges, lawyers and members of Congress endorsed the establishment of a new national court of appeals to increase the capacity of the federal court system to resolve important disputes. The court reorganization proposal probably would not relieve materially the workload of the Supreme Court, but it would permit the federal court system as a whole to increase the number of nationally important rulings handed down each year and consequently to respond more rapidly to more legal questions.
- Split Cabinet Debates
Lisbon — A deeply split cabinet began debate Friday over a bill that would, in effect, assure the Communist Party control over organized labor in Portugal. Warnings of a threat of a new dictatorship came from the Socialist and Centrist Popular Democratic Parties, but the Communist and military members of the government appeared to be firmly behind the proposed legislation. The possibility of a cabinet breakup was still strong.
- Where Are Clients?
Washington (Star-News) — American Civil Liberties Union attorneys who Thursday won as much as $12 million for their 1,200 clients arrested at the 1971 Mayday protests now must begin locating those clients and determining how much each is to receive. But District of Columbia and federal government officials may not have to start writing checks, because the two governments plan to appeal the U.S. District Court Jury's verdict.

No Order Sent To CIA—Ex-Aides

By The New York Times

Washington, — Four former high-ranking members of the Johnson administration said Friday that they knew of no presidential directive ordering the Central Intelligence Agency to set up a special office in 1967 to handle domestic intelligence about radical and antiwar groups.

In testimony before a Senate subcommittee Thursday, Richard M. Helms, former director of the CIA, said that the agency had set up a special office to monitor domestic antiwar activities "in response to the express concern of the President."

Helms, who is now the ambassador to Iran, did not specify which president had expressed the concern nor did he say when the office was established. On Wednesday, however, William E. Colby, the present agency director, told another Senate subcommittee that Helms had authorized the special office on Aug. 15, 1967, at a time when questions were "raised as to whether foreign stimulation or support was being provided to this dissident activity." President Johnson was president at that time.

—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported that Lyman L. Lemnitzer, the retired Army general who is one of the eight members of the President's "blue-ribbon" commission investigating the CIA's domestic activities, has served as a co-chairman of the National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council. The newspaper quoted the general as saying he joined the pro-military conservative group after retiring from active duty in 1969.

—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer quoted a former Kennedy administration official as saying that President John F. Kennedy and his brother, then Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, authorized the CIA to wiretap the phones of two newsmen in 1963. The newspaper quoted Kenneth O'Donnell, another former Kennedy aide, as denying the account.

The four former Johnson administration officials — Dean Rusk, former secretary of state; Walt W. Rostow, former national security adviser; Joseph A. Califano Jr., former special

Flu Epidemic Entering Midwest

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The southeastern United States is experiencing an influenza epidemic, with deaths exceeding the epidemic threshold for the first time this winter, the National Center for Disease Control reported Friday.

Outbreaks of the Type A Port Chalmers influenza strain are now spreading to the Midwest and New England states, the CDC's Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report showed.

Dr. Lawrence Corey, head of the center's influenza surveillance section, said the current influenza vaccine is effective against the Type A Port Chalmers flu, which is the predominant strain now occurring in the nation.

The CDC keeps no national total; on the number of persons who die from pneumonia and influenza, but it bases its reports on a "statistical sampling on a regional level."

Deaths are reported weekly to the CDC from the vital statistics offices of 121 U.S. cities which contain approximately 70 million persons grouped in various regional areas.

The CDC estimated that 530 persons would die throughout the nation from pneumonia and influenza during the second week in January of this year.

"When at least 50 or more deaths than normally expected are reported, this indicates a substantial increase which we define as the 'epidemic threshold,'" Corey said.

The center determines the areas where an epidemic is under way by using mathematical formulas it has developed to assess conditions in various regions.

The CDC's report said the flu epidemic is occurring in Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

The report also includes West Virginia, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia in the geographical area reporting epidemics, but Corey said conditions in those states constitute only flu outbreaks, not epidemics.

Oil Countries Spread Wealth In Third World

By JUAN DE ONIS

Kuwait — The rich oil-exporting countries are allotting part of their wealth among the less affluent countries of the third world through development loans, investments and humanitarian aid.

They thus appear to be acting to counter the charge that, by increasing oil prices sharply, they have ruined the development hopes of the poorer countries, which have been faced with staggering increases in fuel and fertilizer bills and a drying up of aid from the west.

But more than $5 billion was publicly committed last year to the developing countries, directly or through international agencies, an action that Arabs hope will help disprove the western caricature of white-robed oil sheikhs driving to the bank with their money bags past the outstretched hands of starving Asians.

This is part of the increased revenues from oil in 1974 that member countries of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) were unable to spend on imports and domestic investment — calculated at $50 billion to $60 billion.

When a severe earthquake struck Pakistan, killing 4,000 people and leveling numerous villages last month, Libya, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates promptly gave $34 million for relief.

However, philanthropy in emergencies is only a minor factor in the policy of most member countries of OPEC to provide development assistance and risk capital for countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Senate Is Focus In Reform Drive

By The New York Times

Washington — The focus of the drive to alter congressional rules and procedures shifted to the Senate Friday, and Democrats there voted to select committee chairmen in the future by secret ballot of the Democratic caucus.

A comparable rule in the House, in effect for the first time four years ago, led to the apparent unseating Thursday of two committee chairmen and an upheaval in the traditional power structure of the House.

The Senate elected its committee chairmen for the new Congress Friday strictly according to the seniority system. There were no challenges.

But the new rule means that, from now on, chairmen will be held accountable for the way they operate their committees and will not be guaranteed their positions solely because of their seniority.

In the House, the stage was set for votes next week on the four committee chairmanships left vacant by the actions of the House Democratic caucus this week.

As expected, the 24-member House Democratic Steering and Policy Committee nominated Reps. Wright Patman of Texas and Wayne L. Hays of Ohio to retain their positions as the respective chairmen of the Banking and Currency Committee and the House Administration Committee.

Wednesday, the Steering and Policy Committee proposed that Patman be replaced by Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin and that Hays be succeeded by Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey.

Thursday, however, the 291-member caucus, given the chance for an up or down vote on Reuss and Thompson, rejected both nominations and sent the matter back to the Steering Committee, which is theoretically an arm of the Democratic leadership.

Under the rules, the new nominees can be challenged by candidates nominated on the floor of the caucus.

Reuss and Robert G. Stephens Jr. of Georgia have announced that they will challenge Patman for the Banking Committee chairmanship.

Thompson has said that he will not challenge Hays, and no other candidate has emerged yet for the chairmanship of the House Administration Committee.

The Steering Committee nominated Rep. Melvin Price of Illinois Friday to replace Rep. Edward Hebert of Louisiana as chairman of the Armed Services Committee and Rep. Thomas S. Foley of Washington to succeed Rep. W.R. Poage of Texas as chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

Hebert and Poage were rejected as chairmen Thursday by a vote of the Democratic caucus. Price and Foley are the next most senior members of their committees.

Under the new Senate rule, the Democratic Steering Committee will nominate senators to be chairman of committees, and all Democrats will have an opportunity to cast a secret ballot against any candidates proposed by the steering committee.

If 20% or more of the Democratic senators oppose a nominee, another secret ballot will be taken two days later. Then, if the nominee does not get a majority vote of the caucus on that ballot, the steering committee will propose another candidate.

One of the Democratic senators who acceded to a chairmanship Friday on the basis of his seniority was Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut. He was named chairman of the Government Operations Committee.

The Senate Democratic caucus, meanwhile, assigned senators to Democratic vacancies on committees. In the only contested race, Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota, a liberal, was assigned to the Judiciary Committee, having defeated Sen. James B. Allen of Alabama, a conservative.

Soviet Cosmonauts Working Too Hard

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts neared the end of a week in orbit Friday aboard their Salyut 1 space station, and Tass reported they may have had trouble adapting to weightless conditions because they worked too hard.

Official reports on Alexei Gubarev and Georgi Grechko indicated they may have suffered some discomfort before they finally adapted to space conditions on the fifth and sixth days.

Their Soyuz 17 spaceship was launched Jan. 11. They hooked up with the space lab the following day and began work.

On Friday night Tass said the two cosmonauts were in "good form" and "quickly adapted themselves to life in orbit."

But Tass noted the pair took five or six days to adapt and doctors believed it could have taken less time if they hadn't worked so hard.

Tass quoted the doctors as saying adaptation could have been quicker if the cosmonauts had not assumed voluntarily certain additional tasks and then shortened their normal sleep periods. "pleading a great amount of work to do on board."

Tass, however, called them "permissible work overloads."

The report said commander Gubarev reported he felt he had symptoms of a common cold "but subsequently it turned out that these suspicions were a result of his individual reactions to adaptation to weightlessness."

The official reports did not say how long the mission would last.

Inmate Mental Care Said Short

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Possibly as many as 90 inmates at the State Penitentiary are acutely mentally disturbed but cannot be treated due to staff and physical limitations, according to a staff psychiatrist.

Dr. Leonard Woytaszek said many prisoners are being released with the same or worse mental disorders than when they entered prison. Others are better because they were able to "survive" the experience, he said.

Dr. Woytaszek's statements were contained in a report on mental health care at the State Penitentiary conducted by State Ombudsman Murrell B. McNeil.

McNeil, who talked to top prison officials, concluded, "No one with whom I talked denied or minimized the lack of adequate mental health care for prisoners and the peril of not providing it."

Letter Prompted

A letter from a prisoner complaining about the lack of mental health treatment prompted McNeil's investigation. The letter was sent to Sen. Wally Barnett who referred it to McNeil.

Two recent suicides attributed to drug problems were not included in McNeil's investigation. The report mainly provides question-and-answer interviews with Dr. Woytaszek, Warden Robert Parratt and Dr. Edwin Coats, director of the security unit at the Lincoln Regional Center. McNeil said the responses were not recorded verbatim but do show the substance of what was said.

Sen. Roland Luedtke, chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, said the mental health care problems at the Penitentiary is nothing new.

Report May Help

But, he said McNeil's report may aid the committee's efforts to get some definitive action to improve the prison.

Dr. Woytaszek noted that limited psychiatric evaluations are made when prisoners are first sent to the Penitentiary.

The magnitude of the workload is such that Woytaszek and his staff cannot see all those inmates exhibiting symptoms of severe mental disorders, he said.

"About 10% of the prisoners entering the Penal and Correctional Complex are acutely disturbed at the time they enter, and 5% are too ill to be in the Penitentiary at all," he said.

"Another 10% become severely mentally disturbed while serving their sentences.

50 to 65% More

"Again, these are severe cases, not the additional 50 to 65% who would benefit from psychiatric treatment if it were possible to administer it effectively, which is not the case... Only a small percentage of the acutely mentally disturbed can be treated under present conditions."

Woytaszek estimated that 35 to 50% of those considered repeated offenders have a history of mental problems.

The acutely disturbed, he said, need separate treatment facilities which currently are limited. The prison hospital has only 10 beds for both medical and psychiatric cases, and Woytaszek said it is not good to mix the disturbed patients with others.

Space limitations at the Lincoln Regional Center mean only four prisoners from the penitentiary can be treated at any given time.

Need Greater

Dr. Coats said inmates are allotted only four of the unit's 74 beds because, "If more prisoners are accepted, other equally ill patients will have to be denied services. The need is far greater than the capability of the facility and staff."

Murrell B. McNeil

In addition, Dr. Coats said normally 10 potential patients are being held in jail up to four months awaiting a psychiatric evaluation by the security unit.

Although plans are being made to accommodate 25 more patients, Dr. Coats said there is still a need for capital construction.

Plans are being made for a reception and diagnostic center for inmates.

Doyle Looking To Avoid Overbuilding State Roads

By United Press International
Despite the continuing energy crisis, road-building in Nebraska will definitely continue, Thomas Doyle, State Roads Department director, said Friday.

However, Doyle said, pending projects are being reviewed by the Roads Department with an eye towards making sure the roads to be built or rebuilt in the future do not exceed actual transportation needs.

In other words, Doyle said, the state wants to avoid overbuilding.

He cited as an example of the way the review would work is that in the past cases where a four-lane highway may have been the recommendation, the final decision now may be for a two-lane highway.

The reasons for the review, the director said, include the concepts that the 55 mile per hour speed limit appears to be here to stay and the miles traveled by Nebraskans each year is no longer on the increase. Therefore, he said, the standards won't have to be as high as they have been in the past.

By reviewing road needs, the department hopes not only to make sure there is no overbuilding but also hopes to spread construction money as far as possible.

However, Doyle stressed, in no case would highway projects be stepped down for just money-saving reasons.

"There will be no compromising on safety," he said. The projects affected most, Doyle said, will be those on the borderline of higher standards. In the past, he said the tendency was to build to the higher standard in borderline cases because an increase in traffic load was a sure thing.

Not True Anymore
But that situation no longer holds true, Doyle said.

In the first place, fuel consumption has generally leveled off in Nebraska and in some areas has even declined.

On that basis, the director said, "I think it would be fair to say our miles traveled have leveled off."

Another thing was that in the past the speed of vehicles going over any given improved road could be figured at 65 m.p.h. plus. But the speed limit is now 55 m.p.h. and Doyle said it doesn't look like that's going to change.

DEC Gets Complaints On Discharge Permits

The State Department of Environmental Control (DEC) Friday said people have formed some misconceptions concerning the issuance of water discharge permits to livestock operations.

Public notices concerning permit applications by livestock operations have brought a number of protests from citizens who fear the permit will allow the livestock operations to pollute waterways.

Sharon Wherry, DEC information officer, said the permits require the livestock operations to construct run-off controls to prevent pollution of waterways under most circumstances.

She said livestock operations which receive permits should not have any discharge except in the event of a storm which is so severe it occurs only once every 10 years.

LES, NPPD Given Time To Submit Memorandums

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings has given each side in the Lincoln Electric System (LES)-Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) rate dispute action until Feb. 10 to submit written memorandums in the case.

At the conclusion of the nine-day trial, in which LES claimed it has been overcharged for wholesale power by NPPD, Judge Hastings indicated he will schedule oral arguments before rendering a decision.

LES contends that NPPD has overcharged Lincoln some $12 million for wholesale electric power since 1966, and that power rates were not set in accordance with the contract between the two power groups.

State Agency Hikes Federal, State Funding

The State Aeronautics Commission Friday increased state and federal aid to assist in the relocation of a road affected by an expansion of the Norfolk airport.

The commission raised the state's share from $18,000 to $29,500 and the federal government's share from $135,000 to $231,000.

The commission also approved $25,000 in federal funds for a rescue vehicle at the Alliance airport.

William A. Fraser Jr. of Omaha was elected the commission chairman for 1975.

Mobile Home Group Elects New Officers

The Lancaster Mobile Home Association re-elected Donald Hippie president at its annual meeting. Gilbert Ely was elected vice president, Donald Buls, re-elected treasurer, Bill Wood, re-elected secretary, and Tom Fischer, re-elected board member.

New board members are Jerry Johnson and Doug Westerberg.

$25 Fine Refunded To County Attorney

Kearney (AP) — Buffalo County District Judge S. S. Sidner has refunded a $25 fine assessed against County Attorney Gary Hogg.

The fine was levied by Sidner Wednesday after it was learned that Hogg had issued orders to county jail officials not to allow prisoners from this week's drug raid to see anyone or make any telephone calls until after all bookings were completed.

The order was challenged by former County Attorney Andrew McMillen when he was refused permission to see a client, Donald Steinmark.

When called before Sidner, Hogg admitted he had not read the jail rules issued by the court. One of those rules says attorneys will be allowed to see prisoners at any reasonable time.

In ordering the fine refunded, the judge said the violation by Hogg "was not one of willfulness, but of lack of knowledge." The fine was returned to Hogg but he was assessed court costs totaling $26.

NAPE Workshop Set Saturday

The Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE) will hold a legislative workshop Saturday from 1-5 p.m. in the ballroom of the Cornhusker Hotel.

Roger Schulz, NAPE executive secretary, said between 15-18 state senators will be present to field questions from state employees on such topics as overtime pay, dental insurance, cost-of-living pay increases and the constitutionality of the State Personnel Board.

Schulz said all state employees are invited to attend.

Unicam Group Orders Policeman Transfer Bill

By The Associated Press
The Legislature's Retirement Committee has ordered a bill drafted that would allow many of Nebraska's policemen to leave one department and join another without losing accrued retirement benefits.

The legislation would establish criteria for retirement systems for police and firemen in the state's first class cities and in Lincoln, a primary class city.

The committee also ordered an amendment to the bill be drafted so that Omaha police and firemen could be included in the measure if they, and the city, wanted to be.

The committee advanced LB55, dealing with the State Patrol, to general file. The bill would make clear that if a trooper resigns before he is eligible for retirement and then dies, the funds he has left in a deferred annuity, plus interest, would go to his family.

Current language in the law is ambiguous, the committee was told.

The committee also will have a bill drafted aimed at deciding whether the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute or the University of Nebraska Medical Center should be responsible for contributing to retirement benefits for professional staff members who are paid by both institutions.

The committee advanced four other minor bills, correcting legal language, to general file. Those were LBs 43, 49, 52 and 56.

A Compassionate Denial

Judge Warren Urbom has decided that he will not take it upon himself to rewrite history. The body of law as it has accumulated over the years and the policies of the government of the United States as they have been pursued, whether for right or wrong, have taken sovereignty away from "the American Indian nations, the judge said in an eloquently-worded opinion released Friday.

Denying a motion by the Indian defendants to dismiss the Wounded Knee-related charges on the grounds the U.S. government lacks jurisdiction because of the Ft. Laramie Treaty of 1868, Urbom said both that the government does have jurisdiction and that the American Indian cannot and should not expect the courts to frame a new national policy to correct past inequities and deal with the problems of the Indians today.

If it is a bitter pill for the Indians — all Indians, not only the Wounded Knee defendants — to swallow, it nevertheless was a well-reasoned response, couched in personally sympathetic terms, to a rather audacious request on the part of the defendants. The defendants wanted the court to state that Indians are not subject to United States law and the judge said, to the contrary, that they are.

Urbom took note of the "ugly history" of U.S. government policy toward the Indian and suggested that "white Americans may reach at the recollection of it." But, he also suggested, it is not for the court alone to right the wrongs of the past and promulgate a new policy insuring the Indian fairness and opportunity. It is, rather, an endeavor for the legislative and executive branches and the people, the whole of society. "Feeling what was wrong does not describe what is right. Anguish about yesterday does not alone make right answers for tomorrow," Urbom wrote. "Somehow, all the aches of the soul must coalesce and with the wisdom of the mind develop a single national policy for governmental action."

The Indians may rightly regard it as a dark day. A signal opportunity for a tangible victory over historic oppressors has been lost. But in honesty, few can doubt that there was a fair hearing before an unbiased judge and that reason and realism compelled him to rule as he did.

Midway through the opinion Urbom observed: "It may be that the hearing just concluded will serve to make the citizenry of the United States more aware and more willing to grapple with the hard decisions that need to be made. If nothing else, perhaps it can help us learn to listen."

The Indians and their sympathizers may consider that little enough to cling to. But it does suggest that this latest development in the long and sorrowful relationship between the American Indian and the American white majority is not entirely without hope.

Back, By Popular(?) Request . . .

We wuz robbed.

The resolution proposing rratification (or antirescindment?) of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution offered the Nebraska Legislature by Sens. Marsh and DeCamp this week may be acted upon without a public hearing.

And without a public hearing, the public will be denied the opportunity to hear again the profane argumentation of former Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, the unchallenged master of low-brow, melodramatic demagoguery.

Ex-speaker Proud led the charge which scuttled the ERA in Nebraska (but perhaps not legally) in 1973 after it was ratified (perhaps legally) in 1972.

And what a charge it was.

SISTER MARY E. LANGE

They Had A Dream

During the early years of the 19th century, a flood of black refugees from Santo Domingo poured into the United States. A great number of them settled in Baltimore. They were French-speaking Catholics, and many of them were wealthy and educated.

But in Baltimore they found no school for their children until Mary Elizabeth Lange set out to do something about it. With the help of a friend, she established a school for these children in her home.

In 1829, she co-founded a teaching order, the Oblate Sisters of Providence, and thus gave premanency to her educational venture. The Oblate Sisters of Providence was the first Catholic religious order for blacks in the history of the Church.

Born in Cuba around 1792, Mary Lange was the daughter of San Dominican refugee parents. Little else is known of her background or early years.

She is believed to have journeyed alone from Cuba to the United States around 1817, settling first in the Carolinas, then moving on to Virginia and eventually Baltimore.

She apparently had some independent wealth in order to have established her free school for free Negro children, who were taught English as well as needlework, manners and religion.

The French-speaking blacks in Baltimore were banded together in a congregation for which services were held in the basement of St. Mary's Chapel of St. Mary's College. But meeting their religious needs was a vexing problem for Father James Hector Joubert, who was their pastor.

Dismayed that the children in his flock were unable to learn their catechism lessons because they could neither read nor write English, Father Joubert obtained permission to start a school for them in 1827.

At first he asked Mary Lange and her friend to take charge of it, but before it was over he proposed that they join with him to found a teaching order.

Mary and her friend, who were devout Catholics, had been operating their free school for 10 years and had exhausted their funds. When Father Joubert approached them, they were on the verge of closing it.

They agreed to his proposal and began their work in a rented house at 5 St. Mary's Court with 20 girl students, 11 of whom were boarders.

The order was founded officially on July 2, 1829, and was approved by Pope Gregory on Oct. 2, 1831. Mary Lange became the order's first Mother Superior and held the post nine years.

At the outset, the new order generated considerable opposition from Baltimore's white Catholics who objected to Negroes wearing the religious habit of a nun. But the archbishop supported the infant order, and it won respect by its good works.

In 1832, the Oblate sisters who were teachers voluntarily served in the Baltimore almshouse as nurses to the poor during a cholera epidemic. For this they were warmly praised by city officials.

The order established an orphanage, a school for boys and expanded its work west to St. Louis. Mother Mary, who received an inheritance, used her funds to build a chapel in 1837. St. Francis Chapel of the Oblates was the first church in the United States built for black Catholics.

But there were hard times, too. The director of the order died in 1843, and when no priest could be found to assume his duties, the order nearly collapsed. The sisters were forced to take in laundry to meet their financial needs. Eventually, a new director was appointed, and such problems were soon put behind.

Mother Lange died in 1882 after 53 years as a nun. Today the order she helped found numbers more than 300 sisters.

JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — Ever since Woodrow Wilson wrote his masterful study of "Congressional Government" in 1913, thoughtful men and women here have been complaining about the "divine right" of the committee chairmen in the House and calling for modification of the seniority system. Now, finally, something is actually being done about it.

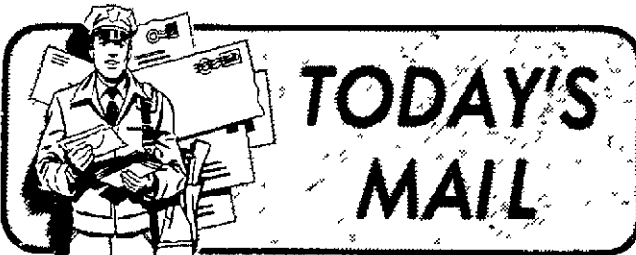

The House is in revolt, not against the whole seniority system, but against what Wilson called the "petty barons" or "lord proprietors" at the head of the committees, who "exercise an almost despotic sway within their own shires."

This is the way many members of the House had come to regard men like Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, the bitter-tongued chairman of the House Administration Committee, Wright Patman of Texas, chairman of Banking and Currency, F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, chairman of Armed Services, and W. R. Poage of Texas, chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

The battle to remove them from their chairmanships is not quite over, but their dictatorial power has been broken and the seniority system in the House will never be quite the same. The reformers in the House, with the help of the new members who were swept into office in last November's election, have demonstrated that they can change the system.

This change has been coming on for a long time. In 1972, a Democratic study group in the House, under the chairmanship of Jonathan B. Bingham of New York recommended the strengthening of the Democratic caucus in the House, but even though he had the support of men like Richard Bolling of Missouri and Morris K. Udall of Arizona, the elders of the House retained their power.

Cold-Weather Precautions

The days of the blizzard last week found people only partly prepared. We read of so many fatal cases in our area, resulting from snow-shoveling, pushing cars, and even walking in the bitterly cold weather.

We use clothes, gloves, shoes to avoid the cold. But why do we ignore respiration? The cold temperatures and bitter air are often fatal not only for the elderly but for middle-aged people, too. The nose should be protected by a scarf or, even better, the regular nose cones. These can save lives. Let's not forget it, and slow down in everything, as well.

The Chambers Defeat

It would take a pretty naive individual not to believe that Senator Rasmussen used racial sensitivity as a tool to garner votes to outbid Senator Chambers for the chairmanship of the Government Committee, and it would take a pretty stupid person to believe Senator Chambers was taken by surprise, as Senator Rasmussen brags he was.

At any rate, the State of Nebraska is the real loser. Senator Chambers knows what checks and balances mean in our democratic system and has continued to go about his job under some fairly trying conditions. There is no way one can clip the wings of an individual with his energy, intellect and dedication.

Will Keep Moving On

I read with a great deal of interest Farm Editor Dominick Costello's story concerning forage crops research needs. We in forage crops have been plugging along emphasizing the need for information and research on how to more efficiently produce beef through forages, and I guess this is the time we will have to keep moving on.

Clay And All The Others

Recently Cassius Clay, alias Mohammed Ali, was named "Athlete of the Year for 1974". How many remember that Ali was also a draft-dodger, according to news reports. Also as a successful draft-dodger, that he continued to pursue his lucrative boxing career? Who was the boy drafted to replace Clay? What happened to him?

Also, how about the thousands of American boys who were forced to leave their country in order to evade conscription? Under the circumstances, perhaps these boys should not only be pardoned but reimbursed for what they have lost.

After all, Clay has made millions even though he may well be considered the No. 1 draft-dodger. The big question is: How was Ali able to avoid being drafted? The No. 1 answer surely must be "money".

Terry Like Old Fire Horse

I was of the opinion that, according to parliamentary law, a candidate should receive a majority of all ballots cast to be legally elected.

In the case of the three-way race in which "Terrible Terry" and Mr. Nichols were the high candidates but neither received a majority, a run-off election between these two is the only fair way to settle this dispute.

For a man so bitter, who resigned and vowed never to run again, "Terrible Terry" sure is raising Cain.

It reminds me of the story told years ago of a horse that had been on the fire wagon. When he slowed down, he was replaced and put out to pasture nearby. Whenever a call came and the fire wagon bells rang, he broke out of the pasture and followed from force of habit.

Let's settle this election according to law, not sentiment.

Revolt Within The House

Last December, however, with an accidental assist from the "Argentine Firecracker," Wilbur Mills, probably the most powerful chairman of all, was virtually forced to resign and the power of the Ways and Means Committee over the selection of the other chairmen was transferred to the party's Steering and Policy Committee and to the Democratic caucus in the House.

This increased the power of Speaker Carl Albert and the majority leader in the House, Tip O'Neill of Massachusetts, but when O'Neill proposed the re-election of all the chairmen except Mills, Bingham of New York wrote out in long-hand a substitute resolution calling for separate and secret votes on the chairmen, and the new members helped bring the old men down.

What this does is to put all chairmen of the House committees on notice that they must be much more responsive to the members of the Steering and Policy Committees and to the caucus of all Democratic members in the House. Chairmen who are responsive to their committee members and can do their work, regardless of age, have nothing to fear from these new reforms but the "petty barons" Wilson complained about are now clearly in jeopardy.

There is clearly a new spirit and confidence in the House of Representatives. This was evident in the last Congress, when the House Judiciary Committee took on the hard task of looking into the impeachment of Richard Nixon. Having won new respect in the country for its handling of this sensitive matter, it was better prepared to face up to its own tyrants and reform its procedures.

Moreover, this may be just the beginning of a much wider transformation in the leadership of the House. For there have been reliable reports that Speaker Albert will retire at the end of the 94th Congress, and this is likely to put more pressure on Majority Leader O'Neill and others who will be hoping to replace him.

The chances are that even in this new Congress, new power centers are likely to develop in the House — one following Albert and O'Neill, another reformist group focusing on Rep. Philip Burton of California and Udall, and a third conservative faction going with Joe D. Waggoner Jr. of Louisiana.

John Brademas of Indiana and John J. McFall of California are also likely to play increasingly important roles in this shifting transition from the old system and the older generation to the new, and here again the new young members in the House could play an important and maybe even decisive role.

For President Ford the new mood and new men in the House are likely to complicate the problem of getting his domestic and even some parts of his foreign program through the Congress.

Ford's economic and energy proposals are running into more trouble with the young Turks in the House than with the older leaders. The chummy relationship that existed, for example, between the Pentagon and Chairman Hebert of the Armed Services Committee will be different under new committee leadership, and this is likely to be evident fairly soon when the President asks for an additional $300 million to help arm the shaky government of South Vietnam.

In short, the days when President Eisenhower could count on Speaker Sam Rayburn in the House and Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson in the Senate to put over his programs are gone. It is a new Congress with new demands on leadership, not only in the White House but on Capitol Hill as well.

"I Can't Wait To See This Year's New Line Of Excuses"

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

The Face Is Familiar

WASHINGTON — Former Oklahoma Senator Fred Harris caused something less than a splash with the announcement that he is running for president — again.

As a matter of fact, Harris is beginning to look like the Harold Stassen of Radical Chic. In 1971, he abandoned his Senate reelection plans to run for president. Then he gave up his 1972 presidential effort after only a few, futile months. Why should we take his new White House hunger seriously? Nevertheless, it is useful to look at the antecedents of his "People's Campaign" because of what they tell us about genuine Populism, liberal "Pseudo-Populism" and the sad state of politics in this year 1975.

Let's begin with Harris's 1972 "Populist" bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. Support did not exactly rise up like spring wheat, from the prairies that once hero-worshipped William Jennings Bryan. On the contrary, the then-senator got much of his money from Wall Street investment banker Herbert Allen, and he kicked off his effort in the Washington rose garden of multi-millionaire W. Averell Harriman. Grass-roots enthusiasm was negligible. When Allen's money dried up, so did Harris's "Populist" campaign.

Still earlier contradiction of Harris's supposed populism should have been perceived in his decision not to seek a second U.S. Senate term from Oklahoma. After all, his home state has a great Populist tradition — after being admitted to the Union in 1907, Oklahoma endorsed William Jennings Bryan in 1908, and then during the next decade, quite a few of Oklahoma's rural counties cast large protest votes for Socialist candidates. If current "Populism" were really a matter of attacking oil companies like Exxon and moulthing liberal programs, then rural, oil-dominated Oklahoma should have been receptive. As it was, home state analysts said that Harris dared not run because his liberalism was anathema and he would have been clobbered.

Poor Harris. Genuine Nineteen-Seventies Populism is moving further and further away from him. Commentators are recognizing that the old Populist constituency of the South and West is increasingly conservative today, and hostile to the Liberal Establishment of the Northeast. A recent article on Illinois Gov. Dan Walker described how Populist policies increased his appeal to conservatives. The two words are increasingly heard and read together — "Populist" and "Conservative."

In contrast, what Fred Harris represents can best be described as "Pseudo-Populism." His attacks on Exxon and Safeway don't come from the Dakota prairies or Oklahoma hills, but from the sociology classes, television talk shows, non-profit study centers and cocktail salons of elite liberalism. Something that is "elite" can't be "Populist," of course, but if it borrows the old terminology and attacks yesteryear's devils, it can pretend.

At the same time, this Pseudo-Populism all too often shades into what Tom Wolfe so bitingly described as "Radical Chic." Harris and his wife, La Donna, have put together several of the type of organization that consists of a cause, a tax-exemption, a handful of college kids with granny glasses, and some chic fund raising.

Back in 1970, a year when Leonard Bernstein entertained Black Panthers and Mrs. Randolph Guggenheimer held a spaghetti dinner for the Puerto Rican "Young Lords," the Harrises founded something called "Americans for Indian Opportunity" and co-hosted a lavish party at the Southampton, Long Island estate of Millionaire Jerry Finkelstein. The event got major coverage on the society page of The New York Times.

There is no need to pay much attention to Harris' campaign. It won't lead to anything more than a new tax-exempt organization. But it would be a shame if the American people are fooled into thinking that Harris is a lineal descendant of Populism's honorable traditions.

Sioux To Appeal Until 'Might Makes Right' Is No Longer True

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Defense attorney John Thorne said, "We will appeal, appeal, appeal and appeal until 'might makes right' is no longer the law of the land."

"The law pretty much compelled it," said special prosecutor Duane Nelson.

"So we, the Indian people, continue on in frustration," said American Indian Movement leader Russell Means.

"I knew they couldn't possibly sustain a defense of that nature," said Rosebud Tribal Chairman Bob Burnette.

Those were some of the responses of those with deep interests in U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom's ruling that the Sioux are not a sovereign nation and that the U.S. courts do have jurisdiction over crimes on Indian land.

Defendants in Wounded Knee cases had claimed the opposite, basing their claims on a treaty signed by the Sioux and the U.S. at Fort Laramie in 1868.

The hearing on the issue lasted 12 days, including oral arguments. It brought elderly Indians from several reservations, AIM leaders, historians, anthropologists and actor Marlon Brando to Lincoln.

Defense attorneys asserted that the treaty gave the Sioux sovereignty and that a favorable ruling would lead to further litigation to recover land reserved by the Sioux under the treaty. The amount of land covered by the treaty is roughly the western half of South Dakota and part of North Dakota.

The "treaty defense caused a lot of hard feelings among people who afraid they would lose their homes," said Bob Burnette, Rosebud tribal chairman.

"I hope the decision will relieve that and we can go back to being human beings and brothers instead of being at each other's throats," Burnette said.

"They hoped that lightning would strike and the buffalo would return," Burnette said.

"It's a great dream, but not reality,"

AIM leader Means, speaking from Gresham, Wis., where he is present at an Indian occupation of an abandoned monastery, said his reaction was one of "complete frustration."

Means, however, said he saw a "faint glimmer of hope" because of language in Urbom's ruling which he said "opens the door and invites higher courts to overturn his ruling."

Means said he hopes the courts expedite the matter and that a ruling is reached by 1976, "white America's birthday."

If the ruling is favorable, Means said, minorities may join the "birthday celebration." If it is not favorable, he said, "It is better to die than continue in slavery. Before dying we hope to blow out the candles on white America's birthday cake."

Despite his criticism of the ruling, Means said he felt Urbom "leaned over backward to be fair. We couldn't have received a fairer trial anywhere else in the country."

Defense attorney Thorne said as a lawyer he recognized Urbom's dilemma to be bound by the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I wish that trial courts would start making the law and then let appellate courts reverse them if they feel the time has come for a change," Thorne said.

"So it goes, the battle has just begun," he said:

"There's no question that the hearing has awakened the conscience of a lot of people and that it has been a basis for exposing... the outrageous and illegal methods by which this country has imposed its will on other people," Thorne said.

Special Prosecutor Nelson said Urbom in his memorandum was "saying the courts are not the place to make amends for a pretty sorry history."

Taking the broad approach that the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation is not part of the United States, "although it has been treated as such for years," was a "bit much to get anyone to buy," Nelson said.

INDIANS RALLY AT CAPITOL ... to listen to Frank Black Elk's comments.

Urbom's Ruling Attacked

Frank Black Elk, American Indian Movement coordinator for the Lincoln area, attacked Judge Warren K. Urbom's ruling against Indian sovereignty Friday afternoon in a demonstration on the steps of Nebraska's Capitol.

The rally had been called in support of an Indian takeover of a Wisconsin Catholic order's property, but it turned into a denunciation of Urbom's decision that Indians are subject to U.S. laws.

Indians had argued in court that they were not subject to U.S. law by virtue of treaties signed between the Indian nations and the American government.

Black Elk said Urbom's ruling showed Indians "are considered subhuman."

'Real Humans'
But "we are the real humans, the original people," he said.

"We were here first. We were here when they (whites) landed — lost — on some rock and we helped them. If I had been there, I would have made sure the rock landed on them."

Black Elk and Bob Yellow

Bird, state coordinator of the American Indian Movement, organized Friday's rally to show support for the Menominee Warrior Society which has taken over an abbey and novitiate near Gresham, Wis.

Indians inside the Alexian Brothers' facility are asking that the property be returned to the Menominees for use as a hospital facility.

Black Elk said the Gresham confrontation between the Indians inside the building and the National Guard, plus "white vigilante" groups, is potentially worse than the Wounded Knee takeover which resulted in the treaty hearing and trials in Lincoln.

Yellow Bird and Black Elk requested that Gov. J. James Exon contact Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lucey and urge a peaceful settlement of the novitiate situation.

'War Of Attrition'
Black Elk said, regarding Urbom's finding that the Sioux nation is no longer sovereign, that when the tribes signed the treaty "we were sovereign, but the U.S. has fought a war of attrition and has wiped tribes and sovereignty out.

"Now we are on reservations, which are really prisoner of war camps.

"We have the right to govern ourselves," but Black Elk said Indians must be more unified in their efforts to convince Congress to give them sovereignty.

He said Friday's demonstration in support of the Menominee takeover was part of the unity effort. "Their cause is our cause," Black Elk said.

More than 30 Indians gathered inside the north entrance of the Capitol for a powwow, with office secretaries and touring grade school children as onlookers.

Black Elk and Yellow Bird then presented administrative assistant William Hoppner with a letter addressed to Exon, requesting that he intervene in behalf of the Menominee Indians.

Hoppner said he would present the letter to Exon, but that he doubts the governor will use his powers to influence the Wisconsin governor.

Separate Fieldhouse Funding To Be Sought By NU Regents

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents decided Friday night to act on a recommendation Saturday granting NU the authority to ask the Legislature for separate funding to operate and maintain the new fieldhouse in Lincoln.

NU President D. B. Varner said Lincoln Sen. Roland Luedtke has shown interest in introducing a bill, or possibly channeling one through the Appropriations Committee, for a special tax fund committed to the Fieldhouse.

Construction was financed through an additional cigarette tax, but no provision was made for money to operate and maintain the building at the State Fairgrounds.

Varner said that could cost "as much as $600,000 a year, or more." He cited two concerns:

First, "We don't have" the money, and second, "we're reluctant to see that chunk thrown into the Lincoln campus" budget because it would exaggerate the total for comparisons.

Regents attorney Flavell Wright noted the fieldhouse will have joint NU-State Fair Board use, and when the bonds are paid off Dec. 1, 1976, the building becomes the property of the state, not the university.

The board will discuss the matter at its public meeting, 10 a.m. at Regents Hall, 3835 Holdrege.

In other informal discussions Friday night, regents had lively debate over faculty getting paid leaves of absence requiring temporary paid staff members when legislative appropriations look bleak.

Since NU has no sabbatical program, a rarity among U.S. universities, Lincoln Regent Ed Schwartzkopf maintained that without the paid leaves for faculty research and improvement, "quality education" would be jeopardized.

Another regent disagreed, considering funds aren't unlimited, but Schwartzkopf said the regents shouldn't be "talking deficit" if they want to "move this institution ahead."

Leaves Supported
Varner and UNL Chancellor James Zumbeke supported leaves for research as a high priority, for educational benefits as well as faculty morale and development.

Regents also placed on the Saturday agenda items to authorize requests of $530,534 for 1974-75 deficiency appropriations, needed to offset costs of mandatory National Guard tuition waivers and losses of anticipated tuition revenues at UNL and the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Regents added an agenda item to approve acceptance of an $11.500 Gannett Newspaper Foundation grant to the UNL School of Journalism, and gave informal go-ahead on plans to finish off the lower level of Regents Hall.

The University of Nebraska Foundation owns the hall, selling it to NU on a lease-purchase agreement. The lower level work will allow larger conference room space for regents meetings, now in cramped space on the main floor.

The new conference room will feature a special design to baffle audience noise, according to Robert J. Pazderka, NU capital construction coordinator.

Greenwood Bus Driver Listed 'Fair'

Greenwood school bus driver Clinton Bridges of Ashland was listed as "fair" Friday by a spokesman at St. Elizabeth Community Health Center.

Bridges was seriously injured in an accident involving a semi-trailer truck and his school bus during the Jan. 10 blizzard. The accident occurred just east of the intersection of Nebraska 63 and U.S. 6 in Saunders County.

According to investigating officers, Bridges was the driver of a bus carrying Greenwood children back from Ashland where they attend school after classes were halted due to the snowstorm.

En route to Greenwood, the bus came upon another school bus stalled in a snowdrift. It was while the students were being transferred from the crippled bus that the accident occurred.

Bridges' bus was struck head-on by a truck driven by Duane E. Squibb of Council Bluffs, Iowa, the reports show.

The impact, the investigating officer said, threw Bridges, who was standing in the doorway of the bus, through the windshield.

Bridges' injuries reportedly included a broken collarbone, broken ribs, ruptured spleen and a dislocated hip. Sixty stitches were required to close a face wound.

Man Arrested In Holdup

Omaha (AP) — The FBI announced Friday the arrest of William L. Washington, 34, of Omaha in connection with the holdup of a downtown drive-in facility of the Omaha National Bank Wednesday.

Edward J. Krupinsky, special agent in charge of the Omaha office of the FBI, said the arrest followed a joint investigation by Omaha police and the FBI.

He said Washington was to be charged under the federal bank robbery statute and would appear before a U.S. magistrate.

Bank spokesmen said after the holdup that the robber got more than $3,000.

Famous Scalp Specialist Tells Truth About Saving Falling Hair

These private individual consultations will be held at the Hilton Hotel, 9th & P Street, on Sunday, January 19, and Monday, January 20, from 1:00 to 8:30 p.m. Ask hotel clerk for Mrs. N. V. McCoy. She will do the rest. Phone 475-4011.

LINCOLN, January 18
In an interview, Mrs. N. V. McCoy, nationally famous consultant for the International Hair and Scalp Specialists, Inc., said, "There are many different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so-called cure-all could correct all the disorders," she explained.

Guaranteed
"International, recognizing that most people are skeptical, offers a guarantee," Mrs. McCoy said. Once a person avails himself of the International treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. You will be given a written guarantee from the beginning to end on a pro-rated basis.

Hopeless Cases Discouraged
First the International consultants are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Everyone is given a complete private consultation to determine the condition of his or her scalp, and cause for his hair trouble.

Free Consultations
This consultation is very thorough and highly technical. It requires 20 to 30 minutes. There is no charge for this consultation and no appointment is necessary. After the consultation he or she is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost. After starting treatment, a consultant will return to check client's progress.

How's Your Hair?
If it worries you, just go to the Hilton Hotel, 9th & P Street, on Sunday, January 19, and Monday, January 20, from 1:00 to 8:30 p.m. Ask for Mrs. N. V. McCoy. Or phone 475-4011. No appointment necessary. Interviews are given in private with no possible embarrassment.

Hopeless Cases Refused
No Cure All... We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness. International consultants will accept only clients whose hair we feel sure will respond to treatment. They cannot help individuals who are slick bald, or the majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, called male pattern baldness, where no treatment, including International treatment, is of any value. Therefore, International will continue their policy of refusing all hopeless cases.

Hair For Lifetime
"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Mrs. McCoy said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment; it all depends on the individual client's faithful observation of a few simple rules."

FLOCK OF BIRDS . . . swoops down on backyard feeder to supplement winter diet.

Blue Birds To Erect 200 New Birdhouses

When flocks of eastern bluebirds begin their annual migration northward during the next several weeks, they will find 200 new homes awaiting them in Wilderness Park.

The houses — which will be mounted on trees and posts in the park — are being made by first, second and third-grade Blue Birds members enrolled in the "Starbird" project.

Sponsored by the national Camp Fire Girls, the Starbird project involves, in part, the construction of houses which will, hopefully, help to "save the bluebirds."

According to Bryce Anderson — park naturalist for the City Parks and Recreation Department, who has worked closely with the Blue Birds in carrying out the project — the bluebird population began to decline in numbers several decades ago.

Not to be confused with blue jays, bluebirds are small with a "brilliant blue color," Anderson said.

And because of their size, they have been crowded out of nesting areas by sparrows and starlings.

"In the past few years, we have seen very few bluebirds in Lancaster County," he continued. "We see them when they migrate through. But it's rare to find nesting bluebirds here."

Due to efforts of bluebird fanciers, the bluebird population has begun to increase during the past several years, Anderson said. But this resurgence has been most noticeable on the East Coast, where people have built nesting boxes for the birds and established "bluebird trails."

"Hopefully, we'll attract a good population of bluebirds to Wilderness Park" when the newly-built houses are installed, Anderson said.

"If they can find the houses, they will go in them," he said. The houses should be attractive to the birds "because their natural nesting site is a tree cavity."

"They're more an open fields bird than a woods bird," Anderson said. And their habitat preference is "the edge of a woods with an open area of grassland around it."

The birdhouse plans used by the Blue Birds in their project include provision for an entrance hole large enough for the intended inhabitants, but too small for starlings.

The houses also have vents to allow for good air flow during hot Nebraska summers, Anderson said. If it gets too hot, "a lot of baby birds will die."

According to Mrs. Leona Frerichs, whose

In order to attract the early-migrating bluebirds, the houses will be installed in Wilderness Park during the first week in February.

A Little Help For Birds

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

You think you have problems with snow, ice and freezing temperatures. Imagine what it must be like from a bird's-eye view.

Winters in Nebraska are hard on birds, according to Phil Gipson, extension wildlife specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

They are particularly hard-hit when there is an ice storm, Gipson said. "Ice storms can be fatal to many birds," he continued, because the ice covers their food supply.

However, he added that most birds can make it through a snowy winter — especially if we humans help by augmenting their food supply.

According to Gipson, birdseed mixtures — placed in an above-ground feeder, or on the ground — will attract a variety of bird species which winter in the Lincoln area.

"Seed will attract bluejays, cardinals, chickadees and titmice if you put it in an above-the-ground feeder, he said. And, on the ground, it will attract juncos, sparrows and goldfinches.

Seed mixtures are available at most feed stores and wherever pet or garden supplies are sold, Gipson said.

Or, "Nutritious grain mixtures can be prepared at home from millet, sunflower seeds, cracked corn, sorghum and milo."

Gipson also suggested mixing a spoonful of seed or corn meal with an equal amount of bacon drippings. "This is a high energy food and they really like it," he said, adding that suet is another food popular with birds.

Inexpensive Feeder

Several types of bird feeders can be made, inexpensively, at home, Gipson said. Those he suggested were:

Tray Feeder — Take a flat board or scrap of exterior plywood (he suggested that it measure 10x14 inches), and attach it to a post by means of a large hinge. The feeder should be about five feet above the ground, and the hinge should be attached to the top of the tray so it will swing upward.

Gipson also suggested attaching small strips of wood around the front and sides of the tray to prevent the seed from being blown away.

The tray should be supported by two wooden triangles placed below the feeder and nailed to the post.

Suet Feeders — One type of suet feeder can be made by driving small nails, about one inch apart, along the edges of the wood triangles that support the tray feeder described above.

After the nails have been driven, lace nylon cord back and forth around the nails, thus forming a pocket between the triangles. The suet can be placed in the feeder by lifting the hinged tray.

Ground Feeder

Another type of suet feeder can be made by fashioning chicken wire into baskets which can be hung from buildings or trees. Gipson said birds that cling to trees — such as woodpeckers and nuthatches — will be attracted to this type of feeder.

Coconut Feeder — Cut a coconut in half and drill small holes in the bottoms of both halves so water can drain out. Next, drill three evenly-spaced holes around the rims of each half. Attach a length of wire or nylon cord through each hole, and affix the feeders to tree limbs so that they hang two feet below the limb and at least five feet off the ground. Sunflower seeds make ideal fare for this type of feeder, Gipson said.

Ground Feeder — A scrap of exterior plywood, two feet by two feet or larger, placed at the base of a tree, makes a good ground feeder, Gipson said. Seed can be sprinkled on top of the plywood, or, when it snows, the wood can be propped up and seed sprinkled under it.

Bacon Drippings Feeder — Drill several holes (about an inch in diameter) in a 2x4 board. Fill the holes with bacon drippings mixed with corn meal or seed and hang the feeder from a tree. (Gipson also noted that the bacon drippings mixture can simply be applied to the bark of a tree, where it will freeze and attract tree-clinging birds.

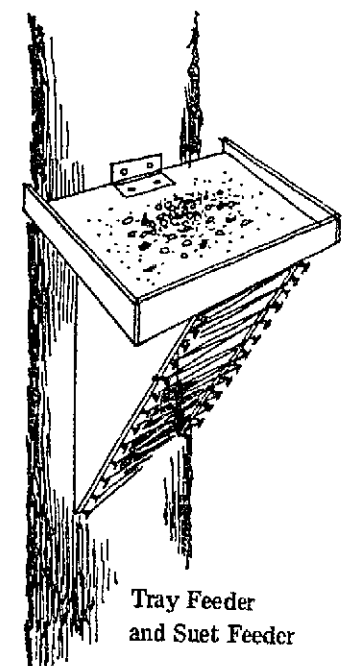

"You'll be better off if you put feeders near a shelter of some kind," Gipson said, suggesting a thicket or a rosebush. "Birds are always concerned about predators" and the shelter will also help protect them from the weather.

In order to keep squirrels away from feeders affixed to a post, Gipson suggested wrapping a piece of sheet metal around the base of the post to make it unclimbable.

Bridge Unusual Solution To Using Trumps

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Dble	2 ♣	2 ♦
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣

Opening lead — ten of clubs.

When to draw trumps is often a crucial problem. Here is a case where South solved the problem in an unusual way.

The hand occurred in a match between Argentina and the United States. Declarer was Alejandro Castro of Buenos Aires.

He got to four spades and the American West led a club to the queen and ace. Gauging the situation perfectly, Castro played the ace and another diamond, deliberately shunning the finesse.

West took the king and shifted to a low heart, the king losing to the ace. Castro ruffed a club and led the queen of diamonds from dummy.

East trumped with the jack and South overtrumped with the queen. Another club ruff was followed by the jack of diamonds from dummy. This time East trumped with the three and South overtrumped with the eight. By now Castro had eliminated two of the five missing trumps.

Declarer then ruffed his last club and played dummy's last diamond, the nine. East, unwilling to trump with the ace, discarded a heart, South doing likewise as West ruffed with the four. Declarer had now eliminated three of the five missing trumps.

West returned a heart, won by South with the queen. When Castro now led a spade, the king and ace came clattering down together, and the outcome of declarer's unusual method of eliminating the adverse trumps was that he made four spades for 420 points.

This proved to be a good result because, at the other table, with an American pair North-South, the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Pass	1 NT	Pass
Pass	Dble	Pass	2 ♦

North made two diamonds for 90 points, but the Argentines gained 330 points on the hand.

Are Older Men After Daughters?

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the 20-year-old man who said he liked older women interested me. You said he was probably looking for his mother, and you recommended counseling.

What about older men who prefer girls 20 or 30 years younger than themselves? Would you say that they are probably looking for their daughters, and recommend counseling for them, too?

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: The 20-year-old man wrote to say he "grooved on women between 45 and 50 with gray hair and middle-age spread." Now if that doesn't sound like he's looking for Mamma, I miss my guess.

On the other hand, most older men who go wild over young chicks have insatiable egos and a horror of growing old. It may be only a coincidence, but when a young beautiful girl marries a man who's old enough to be her father, he's usually very rich — or famous.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to meet that young kid who likes gray-haired women with a middle-age spread. (You said maybe he was looking for a mother.)

Well, I like young boys. Maybe I'm looking for a son. But what difference does it make as long as we both find what we're looking for? Sign me . . .

"46 AND LIKES 'EM YOUNG"

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 70 and widowed. Recently, my daughter visited me, and I mentioned that I had made provisions for my kidneys and eyes to be donated after my death, and I also told her that I had already made provisions to be cremated.

She said, "No way! I will not permit you to be cut up and cremated!" Abby, this is MY wish. I have no use for a plot of ground for someone to keep up, or a headstone for someone to visit once a year. What right has my daughter, the oldest of my five children, to say that SHE won't permit it?

My plans are made and I've even paid $250 for my cremation, and I don't want those in charge to have to hassle my daughter after I'm gone. So what can I do?

MADE MY PLANS

DEAR MADE: What you "can" do depends upon the state in which you live. There are state laws covering this situation. Talk to your lawyer. I'm with you, Mother. Your wishes should be carried out as soon as you are.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY? Box 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

LES Report Stresses N-Power

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Electric System leaped into the nuclear power age and became its own power supplier when the Cooper Nuclear Station went into commercial operation on July 1, 1974.

The importance of LES's participation in the Cooper Nuclear Station was stressed by Administrator Walt Canney in the LES Annual Report for 1973-74.

LES has contracted with the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) to receive 12½% of the nuclear plant's 800,000-kilowatt (KW) capacity. That means Lincoln will receive 100,000 KW.

Further agreements give LES the option to build power facilities or buy additional power from others, in addition to LES's longtime firm power contracts with NPPD.

Although Canney noted that some utilities have scaled back their plans, the demand for electricity in Lincoln continues to increase.

Customer growth increased 4.7%, while kilowatt hour sales increased 5.2%, the report stated.

Total operating revenues were up 10.7% over the 1972-73 year, totaling $21.5 million.

The LES Administrative Board also began planning to meet future power needs by eyeing participating in the Missouri Basin Power Project in southeastern Wyoming.

Additionally, the board directed LES staff to negotiate with the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) for the purchase of power from OPPD's Fort Calhoun Nuclear Station No. 2. LES also is negotiating with NPPD for possible participation in NPPD's planned unit No. 2 at Gentleman Station in western Nebraska.

LES is investigating the construction of its own conventional power generation plant, possibly using solid waste as fuel, the annual report stated.

During the fiscal year the LES Board consolidated 34 rate classifications into 12, to assess more clearly the actual cost of providing service.

With LES becoming its own power supplier for the first time in its eight-year history, Canney acknowledged there is always some risk involved in making those decisions. He said there is a risk because of "the very nature of long-term commitments required to bring electric generating capacity on the line."

"Nevertheless," Canney said, "It is imperative that decisions bearing on LES operational matters 8 to 10 years in the future be made now."

Major construction plans noted in the report include construction of a $5 million peaking unit southwest of Lincoln, work on two 115-kilovolt transmission lines, converting 100 blocks of the distribution system from lower voltages to the more reliable 12,500 volts and construction of a new 115 KV power substation to serve customers in southeast Lincoln.

STAR PHOTO

Youth in Action Visits 'People Experience'

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

It's more than a do-good feeling that Stephanie Noonan gets out of her time spent with Lincoln Regional Center patients.

"It's a people experience," the Pius X High School senior has discovered, "one of the few times people are talking and everyone is listening to one another."

Since last October Stephanie and two classmates have been visiting the center weekly as partial credit for a sociology class.

Although the 17-year-old was "shocked" by her first exposure to the world of the mentally ill, she was at the same time amazed by the diversity among the patients. Stereotyped images faded, she said, as she visited with pleasant housewives and young people at the center.

How she perceives people has since changed. "I'm not as closed about relationships as I used to be," Stephanie confided, "and I'm not as quick to label people."

Nevertheless, some encounters for the volunteer prove frustrating, because Stephanie doesn't understand certain aspects of human behavior.

But Stephanie has hopes that a psychology course next semester will help her along.

Coping with resentment from the patients is a new feeling for Stephanie. "They think we think they're crazy and we're normal," she explained.

But Stephanie's reactions are almost contrary. "I can sit there and not feel so high and mighty. We all have problems and I can identify with a lot of the kids."

What Stephanie and her friends have used to break the ice with the patients is the revival of a newspaper.

Stephanie starts out by conducting a creative writing class, open to people who want to come. She helps the novice writers overcome their inhibitions and she learns some "really insightful kinds of things" at the same time.

The sessions are more than therapeutic. Ready to be run off the ditto machine is the second edition of "Fantasia," the group's journalistic effort.

There are also some less concrete successes for Stephanie. However, working in the admissions unit doesn't offer Stephanie the stability or consistency which she feels is needed to make her work "click."

A rapid turnover in patients limits deeper relationships, she said.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Noonan, 2911 S. 29th, Stephanie has no self-satisfied attitude about her volunteer work. "I always feel I should have given more."

Intoxication Ordinance Challenged

A motion has been filed in Municipal Court challenging the constitutionality of the city's public intoxication ordinance.

Lincoln attorney Walter Radcliffe filed the motion on behalf of Max Jordan, 19, Donald Neibauer, 19, and David Volte, 18, all of Lincoln.

The three were arrested for public intoxication at 12:25 a.m. Aug. 25, while riding in a car driven by Daniel M. Reilly, 19, according to police reports.

Radcliffe said Reilly was stopped for driving while intoxicated but didn't test over the legal limit.

Radcliffe said a fourth passenger in the car, Mike Heald, 18, was also arrested and has been tried and found guilty in Municipal Court. He said the constitutional question wasn't raised in the case against Heald.

Radcliffe said he would base his argument on the fact he believes the ordinance is vague and overbroad.

The motion contends the ordinance prescribes no requirement of knowing intent and that it violates an individual's right to be secure in his home and his right of privacy.

Radcliffe is asking the court to dismiss the three cases because of the constitutional questions he is raising.

Fire Damage 'Considerable'

A fire in a trailer park clubhouse under construction at 3601 N. 1st resulted in "considerable" damage to the building Friday morning, according to District Fire Chief Wendell Malcolm.

Malcolm said the fire was started when a plumber was using a torch to solder a copper fitting which extended through a wall and into the attic.

NU Med Grad Gets Fellowship

Charlottesville, Va. (AP) — A University of Nebraska College of Medicine graduate has been awarded a three-year $82,500 teaching and research fellowship.

Dr. Randall T. Curnow received the fellowship from the New Jersey-based Schering Foundation.

St. John wasn't his last name—that was French and usually mispronounced. But around Cape Cod, he was known simply as St. John, after his home town in Canada.

His appearance seemed far from saintly. Yet it never seemed awkward calling him that. He loved people. He loved the sea. He loved hard work. Most importantly, he loved his church and God. And his enthusiasm was contagious—somehow you felt better after you'd been with St. John.

It's refreshing and exciting to run into someone who tries hard to put his religion into living and working.

Remember that, Sunday and every day. Then folks might feel that same excitement when they run into you and me. That's something to strive for.

Lincoln Playhouse's 'Plaza Suite' Winner

By BILL WALLIS

Neil Simon's New York comedies have been delighting American audiences for over a decade. "Plaza Suite's" premiere in 1968 marked another smash for Simon. The reasons for his success are obvious in the Lincoln Community Playhouse's present production.

The rote comic sequences compete with night club routines in rhythm and subject matter. Inevitably they deal with marriage problems (infidelity, problem children), or sex, or the lack thereof in a remarkably narrow portion of humanity: middle and upper-middle class New Yorkers.

Perhaps Simon's greatest charm is in his ability to turn ordinary situation comedy into poignant resolutions that comment darkly on the social values and the ambitions we cling to in life.

Despite the professional skills of Patricia Dickeson and the humanity of Phil Heckman, the first act dragged. Never have I been so aware of the physical "bits" that fill the rather sketchy beginning dialogue. Patrick diNatale and Patricia Novak were brief but colorful additions to the act.

Heckman proved delightful in the second act. His efforts were complemented by Andrea Visuthipol's flighty and secretly naughty Muriel Tate. Their verbal agility and nearly flawless timing brought out the best of the repetitive word games and physical clichés. This act delights one throughout.

Act Three falls far short of its promise. Patsy Davidson's classic mother was frenetic and unfocused; Sam Davidson's father was too superficial in some important respects, even for a two-dimensional character. Neither was totally believable. This may in some way reflect the rather blatant character types Simon has drawn, and the open contrivances in the plot — for example, window-ledge walking. The evening was, on the whole, delightful, and credit is due director John Wilson for sharpening the considerable talents of his cast. Don Yanik's fine set, and lights by Sibyl Shaw added the essential background. Costumes and make-up were tasteful and adequate in every way.

"Plaza Suite" will run weekends through Feb. 2.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Don't expect drastic changes from the Kansas State basketball team that met Nebraska in late December.

"They really haven't changed that much at all," noted Nebraska assistant basketball coach Moe Iba who scouted Kansas State during Wednesday night's 73-71 win over Arkansas. "They run a little different offense. But it's not anything great, it just gives us something else to worry about."

Reflecting on KSU's easy 80-63 victory over the Huskers in the third-place game at the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City last month, Iba knows KSU will present difficulties for NU in their 2 p.m. tilt Saturday at the NU Coliseum.

The Big Eight Conference opener for both schools, the game will be regionally-telecast as the Big Eight Game of the Week.

While KSU has had three games since the Dec. 30 meeting in KC, the Huskers have been idle. Of course, that provided coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers additional time to prepare for K-State.

"We spent about five days specifically preparing for Kansas State," said Iba. "It helps some but I don't think it's a real plus to spend that much time for one team. I think you really only need two or three days for any team."

Iba explained that coach Jack Hartman's Wildcats generate the majority of their offensive thrust from their two guards — similar in many respects to NU's attack.

"I don't think they had one of their better games against Arkansas," Iba said. "Their guards are still their main scorers, but Gerlach (6-10 center Carl) is playing much better. He's giving them inside play."

"Anytime they have problems they're going to go to their guards and they're going to score," he continued. "They're going to beat you if one or two of their inside people have a good game. That's what we have to guard against."

As Iba notes, KSU guards Chuckie Williams and Mike Evans have carried the brunt of the KSU offensive attack. Williams, a 6-3 junior who has led or tied for team scoring honors four times, is hitting at an 18.2 points-per-game clip. Evans, a 6-1 freshman, who has paced KSU scorers in five games, is close behind at 18.0.

Sophomore 6-6 forward Darryl Winston, who appeared in 13 games last season, is scoring at a 13.4 figure, including a 25-point outburst in an 88-65 win over Texas Tech on Dec. 7.

The Wildcats lost their entire starting five from last year's 19-8 Big Eight runnerup squad. Four were graduated and freshman Dean Harris was killed last May in an automobile accident.

Afternoon Game

Despite what starting time is printed on some Nebraska basketball tickets, the KSU-Nebraska game will start at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The game was switched to accommodate regional television.

So the 'Cats weren't expected to be a prime threat for the Big Eight title this year. Hartman, however, has worked his coaching magic and KSU has won eight of 12 games.

KSU's most impressive triumph was a 91-90 verdict over highly-regarded Houston at Houston. A close 67-65 loss to Arizona (rated 13th by both major wire service polls) was equally prestigious.

The Huskers, meanwhile, are concerned about the long layoff.

"It's going to be tough to put together 40 minutes of good basketball," Iba said. "You never really know how your team will do after that long without a game."

Hartman's View

Kansas State coach Jack Hartman: We may have played a little over our heads when we defeated Nebraska in the Big Eight Tournament and I think Nebraska was a little flat for the game. I'm sure they are anxious to have another chance at us.

Series' Standings

KSU holds an 80-58 lead in the series although the Huskers have captured 29 of 48 Coliseum affairs. Hartman leads Cipriano, 7-3.

Other Games

Other Big Eight openers Saturday night send Oklahoma State (5-7) to Iowa State (6-6), Colorado (3-9) to Oklahoma (7-5) and Missouri (9-3) to Kansas (3-4).

East Rambles Past Beatrice

By DAVE SITTLER

Utilizing a pressure defense and some torrid second-quarter shooting, Lincoln East raced past Beatrice Friday, 65-44, at the Spartans' gym.

Leading by two points, 11-9, after the first stanza, East coach Paul Forch sent his club into a three-quarter court press against the Orangemen to break open the contest in the second period.

With East guards Karl Voss and Bill Holmes applying pressure on the Orangemen via the press, Beatrice committed five second-quarter turnovers while East was shooting a sizzling 9-11 from the field to move to a 29-18 halftime lead.

Highlighting East's scoring outburst in the second quarter was the fact six players scored. Voss, Steve Gohde and Gordon Thiessen scored four points apiece, while John Selko, Mark Nelson and Dirk Lambert each added a bucket.

"We decided to go to the press in the second quarter to try and get some easy baskets and it worked," Forch said. "Our offense wasn't that bad in the first quarter, but it wasn't as effective as it could have been."

Led by the scoring of senior forward Gohde in the last half, the Spartan offense was a model of consistency scoring 18 points in each of the last three quarters.

Gohde finished with a game high 22 points as the Spartans improved their record to 3-2. The 6-1 Gohde was effective from both close and long range as he hit 10 of 14 field goal attempts.

"Gohde did a good job for us tonight after having some shooting problems in recent games," Forch said. "He (Gohde) has a lot of savvy and a good basketball mind."

Another plus for Forch's team was the play of several reserves who were forced into action when Selko and center Randy Lewis each picked up three fouls in the first half.

Thiessen and Kirk Lambert played well in relief of Lewis and Selko while guard Mark Nelson added eight points as he spelled guards Voss and Holmes.

"We'd like to think our depth is one of the strong points on this team," Forch continued, "but it's probably still a bit early in the season to tell."

Lynn Schlake, a 6-2 junior, led coach Neil Nannen's Beatrice team with 19 points. The slender Schlake tallied most of his points with steady outside shooting as the Orangemen's record slipped to 2-5.

"You have to give Beatrice credit," Forch said. "They displayed some fine outside shooting. We were just able to take advantage of their turnovers."

East forced Beatrice into 15 turnovers while the Spartans committed nine errors.

Stanford Shocks UCLA

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Rich Kelly, Stanford's sevenfoot center, scored 22 points and wore down UCLA with 13 rebounds Friday night, leading the Cardinals to a 64-60 upset of the second-ranked and previously unbeaten Bruins.

Forward Ed Schweitzer also scored 22 points for the winners, making nine of 12 field goal attempts, and contributed eight rebounds as Stanford scored its first basketball victory since 1966 over the perennial Pac-8 Conference champions.

Kelly and Schweitzer carried almost the entire scoring load for the Cardinals as they built a 37-24 halftime lead and moved ahead by 15 points on two free throws by Kelly opening the second half.

Griffin Free Throws Give LSE Victory, 73-72

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Lincoln Southeast junior center Dave Griffin now knows just what pressure is all about.

Griffin hit both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation to cap a tremendous Knights rally, as they shaded Grand Island 73-72, in Johnson Gym Friday night.

The Islanders led the entire game until Griffin converted his free throws with just 12 seconds left in the game.

Grand Island brought the ball out-of-bounds following the free throws and worked in for a shot that missed and Griffin came down with the ball to give Southeast its first win of the year.

A tight man-to-man full court press led the comeback for the Lincoln team, that was down by as much as 16 points in the game.

Grand Island, now 4-3, completely controlled the first half crashing the boards for 15 rebounds compared to the Knights' six, while also hitting on 58 per cent from the field compared to LSE's 48 per cent for the first half.

But the Islanders turned the ball over 13 times in the second half while the Spartans only committed 3 errors.

John Hergert and Fred Schmid led the Knights rally in the third quarter as they combined for six baskets, while Griffin and Gary Grace each added one bucket, as LSE closed the 42-32 halftime disadvantage to 54-48 at the end of the third period.

Then-senior guard Mark Haas, who scored 17 points hit three baskets in 1:30 of the fourth period to bring the score to 56-54 in the Islanders' advantage.

After trading five baskets each, Haas scored a three-point play, to tie the game for the first since early in the opening period at 67-all with 2:54 to go.

Grand Island sophomore Jeff Finn, who scored 19 points for the game, hit two straight 10-footers to put the Islanders back in the lead 72-67 with 1:35 left.

Griffin then brought the Knights to within one point at 0:51 on two tip-ins.

Grand Island brought the ball out following Griffin's last basket but had to turn the ball over for travelling.

Following a pass to Griffin, Islander center Dick Huebner fouled out of the game giving Griffin the one-and-one freethrow.

Griffin led all scorers with 22 points, while Finn and another GI sophomore Paul Trieschman, who scored 17 points led the Islanders' scoring.

"We just played average in the first half," said LSE coach Wally McNaught, "we were lucky to be down by just 10 points at the half."

"Morally we got a lift when Haas, hit a desperation half court jumper at the end of the half. That kind of thing can leave a bad taste in the other guy's mouth."

Fifth Spot To Straub

Las Vegas, Nev. (UPI) — Lincolnite Bill Straub zoomed to fifth place after 34 games of the $100,000 Showboat Invitational Bowling Tournament here as the meet went into its final match game session Friday night.

Eight more games were scheduled Friday night with the leading five scorers at the end of the round earning spots in Saturday's nationally-televised finals.

Straub, who was 12th earlier in the day, totaled a 34-game pin-fall of 7,751.

BULLETIN

Las Vegas, Nev. — Lincoln's Bill Straub slipped in Friday's final eight games here Friday and failed to qualify for any of the top five spots in the tournament.

First Three Quarters Spur Thunderbolts To Victory, 73-67

By RYLY RUSSELL

Star Sports Writer

Despite a fourth-quarter surge by Waverly, Pius X held on to edge the Vikings, 73-67, at the Pius X gym Friday night.

Coach Don Kelley's Thunderbolts shot 22-30 from the field in the first half to build a 46-26 lead at the intermission.

"Those were the best three quarters of basketball we've played this year," Kelley said. "But we lost our momentum in the fourth quarter."

The Thunderbolts played an aggressive man-to-man in the first half and stymied the Vikings.

"We were playing without our big man (Tarryl Bockelman) who is 6-6 so that might have hurt us some," remarked Waverly coach Jim Christensen. "But Pius X still was shooting so well, I don't think anything could have stopped them."

Waverly started getting momentum in the third quarter and held Pius X to 16 points while scoring the same number. Ed Wande Hoef paved the way for Waverly in the third quarter by hitting four straight fielders.

In the fourth quarter, Wande

Hoef and Joe Waite combined for 15 points to spur Waverly.

Pius X held a 62-42 lead at the beginning of the fourth stanza, but after one field goal at the opening of play, didn't score again until just four minutes were left.

While Pius X hit its scoring slump, Waverly narrowed the 'Bolts' lead to 13.

Just as Pius X seemed to get its shots back, Kent Krause, Pius X's second leading scorer fouled out.

The Waverly surge came late in the fourth quarter, and just seemed to run out of time.

"I guess our big effort came a bit too late, and we just didn't have enough time," Christensen said. "This Pius team is as good as any team we've played and we didn't get aggressive enough."

Waverly switched from a man-to-man defense to a zone in the first half, but the move didn't keep the 'Bolts' from the basket.

"We really played with enthusiasm in the first half," Kelley said, "but we just were not ready for Waverly's attack in the fourth quarter. We panicked when they started hitting and made more errors than we should have."

Mitch Ohnoutka, the city's leading scorer with an 11.7 average, was held to just six points.

"Teams are setting their defenses to close out Mitch, but he's a good team player, so when he gets closed out, he just passes off to someone who is open," Kelley said.

Waverly's Wande Hoef was the game's leading scorer with 24 points.

Paul Tlarnka and Krause led Pius X with 18 and 13 points, respectively.

Waverly, now 4-3, plays Cozad next week. Christensen said Bockelman, the Vikings' center, should be back in action for that game.

The 'Bolts' play Gothenburg at Pius X Saturday night. Gothenburg is 4-4.

Pius X shot 73% from the field in the first half, with an over-all 67%.

Waverly, hitting on 14-28 from the field in the second half, shot 50%.

"We'll just have to remember that teams like Waverly always make a comeback, and be ready for it," Kelley said.

Monahan Adjusting To 'Bigger Persons'

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

He ain't heavy, he's my teammate.

Lincoln Northeast's Kirby Monahan can say that every day.

Or he can say: he ain't heavy, he's my dad. Monahan, the Rockets' No. 1 heavyweight wrestler, is surrounded by "heavy" people. At wrestling practice, the 6-4, 280-pound junior goes head-to-head against 6-2½, 250-pound sophomore teammate Bruce Colgrove.

At home, Kirby sits at the same dinner table with his father, Richard Monahan, a Lincoln construction superintendent who's 6-6 and 280 pounds.

"I'm sort of used to big people," admits Kirby, who hopes to improve his 6-2 season record Saturday in the first annual Eastern I-80 Conference Wrestling Meet at Lincoln High's Johnson Gym.

Kirby faces more than one heavyweight challenge among his own teammates. "Doug Bell and Dave Ernst are also heavyweights and both of them are strong," Kirby notes. "I get to wrestle a lot of different people and a lot of different styles in practice."

Although Kirby's size and strength have made him a solid heavyweight, he believes football may have helped him more than anything. "Football helped me get a lot meaner last fall," relates Kirby, an alternate defensive tackle starter in 1974 with John Roush.

"It helped my mental attitude," Kirby says of football. "I don't like to lose. I work a lot harder, thinking about what happens and how you feel when you do lose."

Thursday night in a dual meet against Papillion, Kirby tasted defeat for the second time this season. Randy Fader, one of the state's top heavyweights, pinned him.

Although the loss will hurt Kirby when the Eastern I-80 coaches seed wrestlers Saturday morning, he's hoping it will make him meaner and more hungry in the tournament competition.

Northeast coach John McIntyre is convinced Kirby is one of the state's top heavyweights, even though he's just a junior.

"Kirby beat two of the best this season when he handled the kids from Omaha South and Hastings," notes McIntyre. "He can beat Fader if he wrestles well."

In 11 years as Northeast wrestling coach, McIntyre has coached two state champion heavyweights — Sam Martin and Tom Henson.

"Physically, Kirby's probably got the most," offers McIntyre. "I get enthused working with him. He's got good strength, good speed and wants to work. It scares me to grab a hold of him. His ability to move shocks me."

Wrestling fans can see the "heavies" and other conference standouts in action Saturday when co-favorites Millard and Ralston join Papillion and the four Lincoln public high schools in the Eastern I-80 meet.

Competition starts at noon with final matches slated at 7 p.m.

'Amazing' Miller Still Leading Tucson Open

Tucson, Ariz. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, who must be wondering himself when it's all going to end, shot a 3-under-par 69 early in the day Friday and then saw it stand for a one-stroke lead over John Mahaffey after two rounds of the $200,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open.

Miller needed a birdy on the final hole to stay ahead of Mahaffey, and he got it by running down a 14-foot putt and now has shot six rounds this year under 70. His 36-hole score here in the second event on the 1975 PGA tour stood at nine-under 135.

Mahaffey, the young Texan who has played well himself in six rounds this year counting the Phoenix Open last week, also shot a 69 and was at 136, another shot ahead of Mark Hayes, Tommy Aaron and Joe Inman. Hayes had a second-round 67 while Aaron and Inman shot 68s. Miller had the good fortune of playing in the morning when conditions at the Tucson National Golf Club were perfect — warm and calm. But in the afternoon the wind came up and scores with it. One of those who played in the afternoon was Arnold Palmer and thanks to an eagle three on the 15th, he finished with a 71 that put him at 143, one under par but eight shots behind Miller.

Steve Melnyk shot a 68 and Leonard Thompson had a 70 to tie at six-under 138, one shot ahead of Rik Massengale (70), Tom Watson (67) and Dave Stockton (68).

Mike Hill (72), Ron Cerrudo (67), Gene Littler (70) and Al Geiberger (69) were at 140. Lee Elder had a 73 and Don Iverson a 74 to tie in a group at 141. The cut was set at two-over-par 146. Among those who did not make it were U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin, former Masters winner George Archer, Frank Beard, Bob Charles, Ben Crenshaw, Grier Jones, Dick Lotz, Orville Moody, Bobby Nichols and Tom Weiskopf. Most of them played in the afternoon and suffered from the strong breeze which came up late in the day.

Smith Sets Indoor Mark

MONTREAL (AP) — Californian Steve Smith set a world indoor record for the pole vault Friday night when he cleared 18 feet, 2½ inches on a third try at the inaugural International Pro Track meet of the season.

Smith bettered his previous record of 18 feet, 1¾ inches.

McCook Tops Platte, 88-78

McCOOK, Neb. (AP) — Fred Watson scored 39 points as McCook defeated Platte College 88-78 Friday night.

McCook led all the way and the closest Platte came was five points with six minutes left.

Lincoln To Host USSR-USA Meet

It's official now. The USSR-USA track and field meet, for the finest university-age athletes from the two countries, will be held in Lincoln, July 4-5.

Dr. Richard Hammer, who was general chairman for the U.S. Junior Olympics in the Capital City last summer, will head up the latest venture, which is also sponsored by the AAU. "The meet is actually called a junior meet," Dr. Hammer says, "but we don't like that word 'junior'. It gives the impression these are a bunch of youngsters."

"But they will be 20 years of age or younger — college age — and certainly the bulk of them will be representing the two countries in the Olympic Games the summer of '76."

Each team will be comprised of 40 men and 40 women. "There will be nationwide elimination meets to determine the U.S. squad," Hammer adds. "The cream of the crop will be here."

Dr. Hammer revealed that the AAU required a $50,000 guarantee to cover the expenses of the meet before awarding the event to Lincoln.

"University of Nebraska track coach Frank Sevine, who has been especially instrumental in bringing the meet to Lincoln and who will be the meet director, has gone out into the community and found 50 men who were willing to guarantee $1,000 each," Hammer says. "That kind of support certainly speaks well for Lincoln and the general sports interest in the city."

Temporary bleachers will be placed on the north side of the University of Nebraska track to increase the seating capacity.

"If the meet is as well supported as I'm sure it will be," Hammer feels, "it will be a break-even proposition and none of the men will lose any of their guarantee money."

Hammer said that with higher gasoline prices likely by summer, "This meet will give people a chance to stay home over the Fourth of July holiday period and see one of the finest sports events in the country."

The Russian track team will arrive in the Capital City on June 29 — five days prior to the meet — leaving July 6. They will be housed in University of Nebraska dormitories.

The local committee will be responsible for housing, feeding and entertaining the athletes in addition to actually conducting the meet. "What we're really looking for," Hammer adds, "are some people who speak Russian fluently to act as interpreters."

Reopening Of Omaha Hotel In Doubt

Omaha (AP) — The president of Dillon Enterprises said Friday the Diplomat Hotel was closed last Sunday because "The situation is so bad, we can't stop it other than by closing the hotel."

Robert Dillon said he is "90% sure" his firm will decide not to reopen the hotel. Dillon has a lease on the hotel which expires in 1976.

It was revealed Friday that a number of arrests on suspicion of felony narcotics violations were made as a result of a 50-day investigation at the Diplomat.

Dillon blamed the closing on what he called "the general deterioration and violence downtown." He said that has been a factor in the hotel losing business in recent months.

A supplier of the hotel was assaulted in front of the building one recent afternoon, Dillon said. There were three break-ins at the hotel bar, resulting in the loss of $2,000 and some liquor and cigarettes, in the 10 days before Jan. 6, he said.

"In the 20 years I've been in the hotel business, I've never had anything like this," said Dillon. The firm owns and operates Holiday Inns in Austin, Minn., and Okoboji, Iowa.

Dillon Enterprises subleased the hotel to Douglas Deitrich in May, 1974, and Deitrich said the hotel will be reopened.

It was closed "while we do some personnel housecleaning," he said. "Proper management persons" will possibly be on hand within a week, and the hotel will be reopened then, he said.

Catholic Bishop: Ex-Tech Counselor Files Suit To Stay Closed

Grand Island (AP) — The committee to reopen Catholic schools in Grand Island may reach its $200,000 goal but it won't keep the city's two Catholic elementary schools from closing this spring.

Although the committee has been saying that if the money is raised Bishop John Sullivan might change his mind, Bishop Sullivan said Friday that won't happen.

The decision to close the two schools stands, the bishop said. "I reluctantly and regretfully had to announce the closing of the two parochial schools in Grand Island after weeks of painful and prayerful deliberation," the bishop said.

In dollars and cents terms, he said, he was unable to find any other solution.

Chambers claimed he was the victim of discrimination when his contract was not renewed. The brother of State Sen. Ernest Chambers also named School Supt. Owen Knutzen in the suit where," damaging him to the extent of $30,000.

Chambers claimed the "defendants' actions were willful and malicious," and asked for additional $250,000 in punitive damages. He also claimed his constitutional rights were denied him "because he is black."

Chambers now is a mathematics teacher at Hillside Elementary School in District 66.

that failed, the task would fall into the hands of the President.

"If there is to be a tax cut," Curtis said, "it should raise revenue of the amount equal to the cut."

The third-ranking Senate Republican told the Omaha Kiwanis Club the Ford administration's recommended investment credit increase from 7% to 12% was a "good example of a constructive cut in taxes."

S&L, Omaha, Makes Gains

Dr. Campbell: No Pat Answers'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

"Noting that '12 days in office make neither an expert nor a prophet,' new Education Commissioner Anne Campbell indicated Friday she'll respond to pleas for stronger leadership to improve education in Nebraska.

"There are no pat answers," Dr. Campbell cautioned, calling for the cooperation and help of all educators, in an address at the Nebraska Council on Teacher Education (NCTE) winter meeting in Lincoln.

The commissioner's role has evolved from a supervisory post heading the state's public schools, she said. Now, "Over and over again, the term 'leadership' has been injected" into talk about expectations of her.

More Cooperation

However, "I cannot articulate the educational needs" of the state, based on present fac-tionalized data, Dr. Campbell said. Before she can "present a clear picture" of those needs, she suggested an end to each seg-ment of education going "our own way with our own line to the bee-hive."

An "alliance is the key to what can and must be done," she said, "in providing the best educational system for those we serve." And "it is important we maintain and foster" alliances such as NCTE, which she said "provides one of the solid vehicles" to improve learning.

Dr. Campbell said adults as well as youth should be offered better educational opportunities.

She left some questions hanging in the air, and made a few general recommendations: "I am concerned about how much the school can do," she said, wondering aloud whether it should reform or reflect society, and whether it can be "all things to all people."

Dr. Campbell also questioned whether school policies serve students as well as teach them, or whether little kingdoms of specialization are emerging.

'More Options'

She proposed that "students in smaller (school) districts be given more options in subjects," to allow them to "see the educational world in its totality."

For example, she suggested teaching "relationships between subjects in the real world," such as math and English, while "maintaining the integrity" of each discipline.

Citing discipline as the No. 1 problem according to the Gallup Poll the last five years, Dr. Campbell also called for improved "classroom management." A former teacher and school superintendent herself, she said teachers "do not know well enough how to cope with the students now in the classrooms."

She characterized much of education as embracing the "pat-ent medicine" approach for short-term relief, and the "scapegoat mentality" of transferring blame for problems to others. She also called for more stringent accreditation standards.

The central focus for Nebraska education, Dr. Campbell said, should be to determine what kind of children must be served and how, accounting for their home environments and mores, and then to systematize the ap-proach "in a set of attainable goals."

'Done All The Time'

In an earlier speech to NCTE Friday, Nebraska Wesleyan University President Vance D. Rogers said despite the state constitutional ban on state funds going to private education in-stitutions, "It's done all the time."

Predicting a "good chance" for legislative change to broaden financial assistance to students who choose to attend indepen-dent colleges, Rogers said 30 to 40 states including Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri have such programs.

Rogers spearheaded appeals for tuition grants using state funds, but the State Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional the money going to private schools. "The Supreme Court did not say" money going to students at private schools was un-constitutional, he added.

Tuition grants, usually based on a student's financial need, are already awarded in Nebraska, Rogers said.

For example, he said public money pays for University of Nebraska veterinary students to study at other universities that have a professional vet school. At Wesleyan, Rogers said, two blind students receive state funds.

"To be consistent" with the public money-private college concept, he said is a "very, very difficult thing." He supported NU President D. B. Varner's efforts for a law to allow direct state payments to any private college student.

Rogers said statements that private higher education costs more "confuse the issue." He explained "the costs are probably about the same," but taxpayers subsidize the tab for public education producing ap- parently lower tuition costs, while private college students pay a bigger tuition share.

Toastmasters Elect Officers

Two Lincoln-area Toast-masters Clubs have released names of newly elected officers for terms beginning in January.

Officers of Club 403 and 2747 are president, Tom Bowen, Jon Headrick; educational vice president, Ken Young, Jim Longman; administrative vice president, Irv Goldenberg, Marv Vinsonhaler.

Secretary-treasurer, Bill Desch, Don Demars; sergeant at arms, Mike Eyster, Gaylord Becker; and historian, Steve Laub. No historian was elected from Club 2747.

Peru State College Head Solicits Merger Opinions

Peru State College President Douglas Pearson has asked faculty, alumni and area citizens for their opinions on a merger with the University of Nebraska or the technical colleges, or no merger.

The voluntary survey stems from a resolution the State College Board of Trustees passed in December, directing presidents of the four state colleges to obtain reactions to the three possibilities.

The board cited "widespread wonder and anxiety with regard to the administrative structure of institutions of postsecondary education."

The resolution also noted the state college system "has certain features in common" with NU and the community colleges "and is therefore considered as a possible affiliate with either."

The state college presidents must report their responses to the state board by Feb. 30.

Meanwhile, Sidney Sen. Robert Clark has in-troduced a bill which would place Nebraska's two-year technical community colleges under the State College Board of Trustees; the intent is to eliminate unnecessary duplication of facilities and services.

Pearson said he welcomes direct comments about the merger possibilities, or people may con-tact the Peru State Advisory Council repre-sentatives before their Jan. 22 meeting. They are:

Auburn — Dick Hahn Jr., Richard Layson, John Sanders; Avoca — Sen. Calvin Carsten; Falls City — Leon Joy, Judge Albert Maust, Ward Reesman, Gus Scholz, Sen. Irving Wilfong; Humboldt — Guy Cooper, Darrell Montgomery; Johnson — R. W. Remmers, Louisville — Ferne Havac; Nebraska City — Verne Jones, Vern Livingston, Dr. A. O. Gislund, Dick Koch; Pawnee City — Morris Snyder; Peru — Bill Snyder, Sue Fitzgerald, Joe Masopust, John Schmidt, Don Yates; Plattsmouth — Tom Yopp, Charles B. Caverzagie; Steinauer — John Steinauer; Sterling — Larry L. Rathe, Walter Zink.

SeTech Board Sets Discussion Of Legislation To Allow Funding

The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech) Area Board Tuesday will discuss legislation on the community college system government and funding.

In a p.m. meeting at the Lin-coln campus Bryan Center, 1701 S. 40th, the new 1975 board will also elect officers and consider new board policies for the Fair-bury, Lincoln and Milford cam-puses.

The 1974 board went on record supporting strong local con-trolling and funding of the six com-munity college areas, and endorsed legislation that would authorize local boards to levy up to one mill for local use, such as capital construction.

Unconstitutional

However, because the State Supreme Court ruled the local property tax for community colleges unconstitutional, the 1975 Legislature must act on $6.1

million in requests to keep those campus doors open through May.

SeTech Area President Robert S. Eicher said he's confident the Legislature "will see to it that we have that money to operate."

In the 1974-75 SeTech budget, $4.8 million, tuition generates about $1 million, general funds about $2.4 million, and the now-prohibited mill levy, $1.4 million.

"We could operate through February with the present fund-ing we have available," Eicher said, noting the other five areas are in much the same predicament.

Future funding decisions by the Legislature could come home to roost in Lincoln, where SeTech has proposed building a new $6.7 million campus. A one-mill local levy would generate $15 million over a 10-year period, Eicher has said.

"It's going to be a difficult year in the Legislature because of economic conditions," Eicher said, adding he doesn't believe lawmakers "disagree with the need for some kind of facility in Lincoln."

"I feel strongly there should be some local control," Eicher said. Meanwhile, other pressures are filtering down to area boards, such as Sen. Robert Clark's proposed law to put the community colleges under State College Board of Trustees con-trol.

The SeTech board Tuesday will also act on a proposal to ex-pand computer services for in-structional and administrative programs, and hear a preliminary report on the annual area audit to firm up financial procedures.

Other agenda items include personnel matters and enroll-ment reports.

Some Special Education Payments Will Be Mailed

Some LB403 second-quarter payments will be mailed to Nebraska school districts Monday, Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said Friday.

Districts receiving payments for their special education programs meet the criteria in pre-audit guidelines agreed upon by the State Department of Education, Department of Ad-ministrative Services (DAS), the attorney general, state auditor and governor's offices.

The criteria, Dr. Campbell said, are a list of handicapped children in the district, a list of services, a plan for offering the services and a budget.

Second-quarter payments to districts meeting those requirements will amount to a maximum of 55% of half the total amount each district requested, she said.

Under LB403, the Education Department was to distribute more than $8.6 million in four approximately equal payments. About $2.7 million was paid out during the first quarter, leaving about $1.7 million available for the Dec. 30 payments.

Dr. Campbell noted the payments are based on the total amount of the appropriation, rather than the total amount requested by a local school district.

Dr. Campbell said the procedures for second-quarter payments were agreed upon at a meeting with Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher, the governor's administrative assistant Norman Otto, State Auditor Ray Johnson and accountant Harvey Carne, DAS Director Stan Matzke and budget aide Jon Oberg; Deputy Education Commissioner LeRoy Ortgiesen, and Lincoln Public Schools Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog, also special LB403 financial consultant to the Education Department.

The department has been under fire for the delay in second-quarter payments, after discrepancies were discovered in the first set. Some school districts had threatened to sue the state, unless the payments for their required LB403 programs were sent out this week.

Want the facts? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Want informed opinion? Write Walter Scott, Parade, 733 3rd Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. I have heard the rumor that the Shah of Iran deposited $2 million in Richard Nixon's numbered Swiss bank account in Cosmos Bank in Zurich. Is there any truth to that rumor?—S.L.R., Bethesda, Md

A. For more than a year now various Iranian enemies of the Shah have been circulating such rumors, have in fact written anonymous letters to this publication and others, claiming that the Shah has feathered Richard Nixon's financial nest. They have provided no evidence of that allegation, which must therefore be regarded as diabolical canard. There is no evidence that Richard Nixon has any numbered Swiss bank account.

MIA FARROW AND HUSBAND, ANDRE PREVIN

Q. Mia Farrow who was married to Frank Sinatra and is now married to André Previn—didn't she almost die a little while ago? Why did the press hush it up? Was it an attempted suicide?—May Ann McCarthy, New Haven, Conn.

A. Mia Farrow, 30, was admitted to King's College Hospital in London several months ago for an emergency appendectomy. Her appendix burst. Complications set in and two operations were necessary to save her life. She has since recuperated at her home in Leigh, near Dorking, Surrey. The press did not hush it up. There was no suicide attempt.

Q. When Henry Kissinger takes his two children overseas to a foreign land like the People's Republic of China, who pays for them—Kissinger or the American taxpayer?—Mrs. Leland Stevenson, Charlottesville, Va.

A. Dr. Kissinger explains that when the Air Force sends him a bill for the air passage of his two children, Elizabeth and David, from Washington, D.C., to Peking and return, he will pay it.

Q. What's the inside story of Ryan O'Neal and Sabrina Guinness, whose father runs the Guinness Mahon merchant bank in London? Aren't they secretly married?—Jessica Huntington, La Jolla, Calif.

A. Ryan O'Neal and heiress Sabrina Guinness are not married. O'Neal hired Sabrina as a governess to his precocious daughter, Tatum O'Neal. He brought Miss Guinness, 19, from London to Malibu Beach, Calif., where she says, "I am not married to Ryan; neither am I having an affair with him. I simply work for him. That's all there is to it. I met him at a school in London his daughter, Tatum, was attending. I was working for the school at the time. No more than that."

Q. More and more police departments are using dum-dum bullets. Who invented the dum-dum bullet?—J.W. Kellogg, Syracuse, N.Y.

A. In the 1890's Capt. Bertie Clay, commander of the British Royal Arsenal at Dum-Dum, India, near Calcutta, learned that a large soft bullet was effective in halting the attacks of fanatic hill tribesmen. He discovered that such bullets made of soft lead without full copper sheathing expanded upon impact, causing great damage to the person struck. Thus the dum-dum bullet was born and was soon adopted by American hunters to make sure that once an animal was hit, the animal died instantly instead of suffering a lingering death.

PRESIDENT FORD

BARBER PITTS

Q. I notice that what hair President Ford has left on his head has been restyled. Who does his hair? How much does it cost Ford?—Richard Dobell, New York City.

A. The President's barber is Milton Pitts, 58, who works the White House on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Pitts runs his barber shop in the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel, Washington, D.C., on other days. Pitts restyled President Ford's hair several weeks ago, charges him $8 for a haircut and shampoo.

Q. Is it a fact that Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, one of this nation's wealthiest men, paid no income tax in 1970?—Lois Lewis, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A. It is a fact.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH

Q. President Amin of Uganda accused his Foreign Minister, Princess Elizabeth of Toro, of making love to a Frenchman in a lavatory at a Paris airport and therefore fired her. Is Amin bananas or just jealous?—E.D., New Rochelle, N.Y.

A. President Amin of Uganda is not the most rational man in the world. He not only accused Princess Elizabeth of making love to a European in a Paris airport lavatory, he also accused her of contacting the American Central Intelligence Agency. Neither of these charges is true. Amin's previous Foreign Minister Lt. Col. Michael Ondoga, was found floating in the Nile two weeks after Elizabeth was given his job last February. It is no secret in Uganda that Amin had a romantic attachment to Elizabeth and that his behavior is "bananas." Thus insane jealousy is as good an explanation as any for his action.

Q. During the Watergate trial last month, one of the transcripts revealed Mr. Nixon as urging his two aides, Haldeman and Ehrlichman, to accept "two or three hundred thousand dollars" for legal fees and family support. "No strain," Nixon said. "Doesn't come outa me. I didn't, I never intended to use the money at all." My question is: Who did that money come out of, and where has it gone to?—Dan Hutton, Winnetka, Ill.

A. The so-called "slush fund" to which Mr. Nixon was referring consisted of cash funds reportedly turned over to Bebe Rebozo from Howard Hughes, the Las Vegas billionaire, A.D. Davis of the Winn-Dixie grocery chain, and from other unidentified sources. Exactly what happened to this money which Nixon offered to Haldeman and Ehrlichman and which they turned down has not yet been made clear.

The former Vice President (right) with Walter Dilbeck, his real estate partner and World War II hero. Agnew's wide contacts in the Middle East, Europe and Japan have proved valuable, and Dilbeck says happily that "thanks to him our business is on the upswing."

in some of his real estate deals and became one of his partners.

"When Ted Agnew resigned from the Vice Presidency," Beck continues, "Walter called me one day and said, 'You know, we oughta get Agnew into our business. He knows a lot of those right-wing bankers. He could be of some help in getting us financing.' I agreed with Walter, but I didn't know Agnew. I knew people, however, who did—Milton Berle, the comedian, and his wife Ruth. Both good friends of Agnew."

"The Berles phoned and corresponded with Agnew on our behalf. And last March, when Frank Sinatra threw an 80th birthday party for Jack Benny, Ted Agnew flew out to Palm Springs to attend it. That weekend I invited him over to my house—I have a place in the desert—and, of course, Walter Dilbeck was there, too."

Hurting financially

"Ted Agnew had been out of office for about five months when he visited us. We were tremendously impressed by the man's stature and honesty. Right off we made him a proposition. He was hurting financially then, and he could have accepted it immediately. But to show you the character of the man, he turned to us and said, 'I'm very much touched and very grateful to you both, but you should know that I could turn out to be more of a liability to you than an asset.'"

"I told Agnew we were willing to take

On balance Spiro Agnew must surely be one of the luckiest men in the world.

Although his "bagman," I.H. Hammerman, was sentenced to 18 months in jail, and his briber, Allen Green, was sentenced to 12 months, Agnew was permitted to resign from the Vice Presidency and plead nolo contendere to charges of income tax evasion for which he was fined $10,000 and sentenced to three years of unsupervised probation.

It is true that Agnew was barred from practicing law in Maryland and that under the law he is the equal of a convicted felon. But he has not spent a single hour in the pokey nor is he about to.

Moreover, according to Walter Dilbeck, the Evansville, Ind., real estate dealer whose partner he now is, "Ted Agnew is currently making more money than he ever did as a lawyer.

"What's more," adds Dilbeck, a 56-year-old whirlwind, "he's going to end up a multimillionaire. He's a partner in my real estate business, and he's easily worth what he cost. What did he cost?"

$100,000 a year

"The deal I made with Agnew called for me to pay him $100,000 a year for four years plus one-third of the profits of the first year, and half of the profits of the other three. After four years Ted Agnew is free to go on his own. By that time, as I say, he should be a multimillionaire."

"Where did I meet Agnew? Down in Palm Springs. Over at the house of John Beck. John's a Hollywood producer and a partner of mine who's doing a film based on my life. It's called OK, Private Dilbeck. And the author of the screenplay is [actor] Ryan O'Neal's father, Charles 'Blackie' O'Neal. I think Stuart Whitman or Burt Reynolds or Jeff Bridges or one of those actors is going to play me as a young man."

In World War II Dilbeck won the Distinguished Service Cross and four Purple Hearts for heroism at Buschhof, Germany, where almost singlehandedly he killed 68 Nazi soldiers with his Browning automatic rifle.

Dilbeck's wartime exploits were scheduled for film production by Warner Bros. some years ago, but the deal hit a snag, and veteran producer John Beck, 65, was brought in to get it rolling.

"It was actually I," says Beck, "who got Walter Dilbeck together with Spiro Agnew. I met Walter, liked him very much—he's so colorful, flamboyant, and creative—that I joined up with him that chance. He then told us the sad story of how a friend in the import-export business had offered him a job, only to retract it later because his board of directors felt that the name Agnew would prove a disadvantage.

"Anyway," Dilbeck takes up the narrative, "Ted Agnew asked Johnny Beck and me to come to Washington, D.C., which we did about three weeks later. Ted was still in the process of cleaning out his office, boxing his papers, all that sort of thing. But eventually we got down to business and agreed on our deal.

'Valuable contacts'

"I don't wanna go into the details," Dilbeck says, "except to say that Ted Agnew has many valuable contacts both in this country and overseas. During the Nixon Administration, Nixon handled the Israeli contacts in the Mideast, and Ted handled the Arab contacts. He made a lot of important friends among a lot of important people.

"Money's tight right now," Dilbeck explains. "Banks are conservative in the line of credit they extend. Almost 60 percent of our dollars are overseas . . . maybe $300 billion in the Mideast.

"Ted Agnew's opened the doors to some of that European and Arab money, and that's what the business needs. My three landholding corporations are Dilbeck (r) with John Beck, another of his partners and a veteran movie producer. Beck says it was he who actually brought Agnew and Dilbeck together.

Dilbeck & Associates, Sunflower Corporation, and Walter J. Dilbeck, Inc. But I'm not going to tell you which one Agnew's signed with. He likes to keep his name out of deals, and I want to respect his wishes.

"Since it's already come out in the press, I guess I can tell you as regards our first project—buying up 1600 acres in Kentucky near Lake Barclay. It's gonna be for a resort-type city. It was Ted Agnew who flew to the Middle East and got investors in Kuwait to put up $6 million in capital to buy the land. He's also raised Saudi Arabian money and Japanese money to buy the Mount Victory Coal Company in Kentucky.

"What is his share of the profits? The press says we stand to make $2.5 million on the deal, but I'm not gonna confirm or deny that. All I'm gonna say is that thanks to him, our business is on the upswing. Just got a call a little while ago from Holland interests wanting to buy into coal mines.

"How frequently am I in contact with Ted? Well, just about everyday by phone. And in person we see each other about once every two or three weeks, either in Evansville or in Maryland.

"Do I think Agnew is a help or a hindrance? Hell, he's one helluva help. If I hadn't thought that I wouldn't have dealt with him in the first place. Don't I think he was 'on the take?' Hell, no. What he did when he was in office—that's American politics. I believe the squealers should have gotten more time than the guy they squealed on. After all, Agnew never went to trial . . .

"Do I think the guy who accepts bribes is less guilty than the guy who does the bribing? I'd rather not go into that, rather not answer that.

Approves resignation

"I don't think anything's been proved against Ted Agnew. I do think, however, that it was the best thing for this country that he resigned."

Although Walter Dilbeck has been a Republican for the past eight years, he contributed $140,000 to Sen. Vance Hartke (D., Ind.). "Because I believed he would make a good President, I also contributed $140,000 to Ronald Reagan in 1968 when I thought he was gonna run for President. Also contributed $200,000 to Hubert Humphrey in '72. None of them turned out."

Walter Dilbeck was born in Ft. Riley, Kans., where his father was a major in the Army. He was reared in Evansville, Ind., went to work for Swift & Co., the meat-packing outfit, as a teep-ager, got married when he was 20. At Swift he worked his way up from "cellar boy" to the corporation's business administration school.

In 1943 he was drafted, sent to Camp Blanding, Fla., as a trainee and then shipped to Europe where he fought gallantly with the 63rd Infantry Division, winning a dozen awards for his heroism in the storming of the Siegfried Line.

Made money

"After the war," he recalls, "I returned to Chicago. I worked again for Swift, then branched out into real estate, buying and selling tracts and making a good deal of money. I've been in real estate and different businesses ever since then.

"I've got four married daughters, 11 grandchildren, and a great wife. All four of my daughters—they're 23, 29, 32, and 33—are in the real estate business with me along with two sons-in-law. We're one happy family. How much am I worth? I don't exactly know. In the millions I'd say and let it go at that.

"Am I as flamboyant as they say? Well, I like flashy clothes, lively clothes. I'm 5 feet 11. I weigh 190, have black hair, black eyes. What else do you wanna know? Have I ever met Mrs. Spiro Agnew? No, I've never had the pleasure. Not yet. What do I do for relaxation? Horseback-riding and making money. Has Ted Agnew ever rode horseback with me? Not yet. But he's certainly joined me in making money."

Walter Dilbeck with his "great wife" and four married daughters, at a Christmastime gathering. All four daughters and two sons-in-law are in the real estate business with him. "We're one happy family," says the flamboyant father.

How Fisher-Price lets the sun shine in, even on a rainy day.

As every mother knows, rainy days can make you feel all cooped up. Or they can turn out to be the kind of cozy, giggly get-togethers you remember fondly. It all depends on what the children are up to.

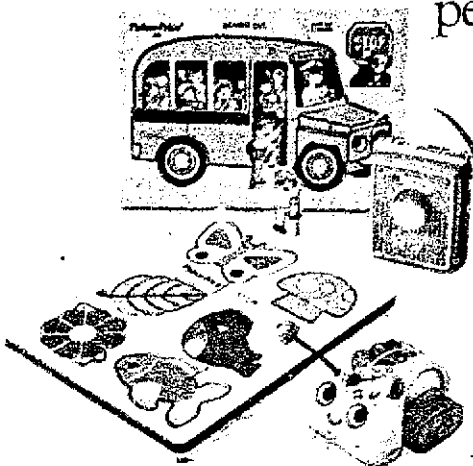

That's why Fisher-Price toys are so right for a long rainy day.

Realistic toys like our three big new Fisher-Price Construction Trucks can load up marbles and dump blocks indoors, when they're not permitted outside. Imaginative toys like our Play Family Castle spark hours of fascinating make-believe.

Then there are puzzles to puzzle over. Bowling and Basketball games to channel that young energy.

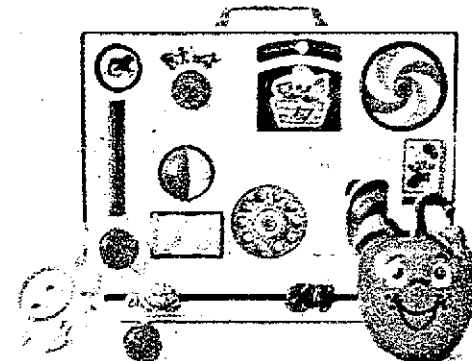

A fat little Tug-A-Bug pull toy to toddle down the hall. Crib & Playpen Toys to fascinate the most curious baby. And cuddly dolls to dress and comb and chat with.

Fisher-Price toys have no batteries to run out at the wrong time.

And there are no frustrations for little hands to struggle with. Just lots and lots of interesting things to do. Because with rain on the roof, it's more important than ever to keep everything sunny.

Micronesia New Pacific Vacation Belt

by Charles Peterson

TINIAN, THE MARIANAS

Since 1947 the U.S. has administered 2141 islands of Micronesia which punctuate more than 3 million square miles of the Western and Central Pacific Ocean.

These islands, with a population of 96,000, are in land mass half as large as Rhode Island, but the problems they present in health, education, finance, government, and transport are absolutely staggering.

The Micronesia Trust Territory consists of the Marshall Islands, the Marianas, and the Caroline Islands, and what they all have in common is tropical climate.

MICRONESIA CONTINUED

The reason the U.S. undertook to administer these islands following World War II is that they are militarily strategic, situated within striking distance of almost every point in the Pacific.

Names like Saipan, Tinian, Truk, Yap, Palau, Kwajalein, and Ulithi may mean relatively little to the average American today, but they surely stir the memories of veterans who fought the Japanese.

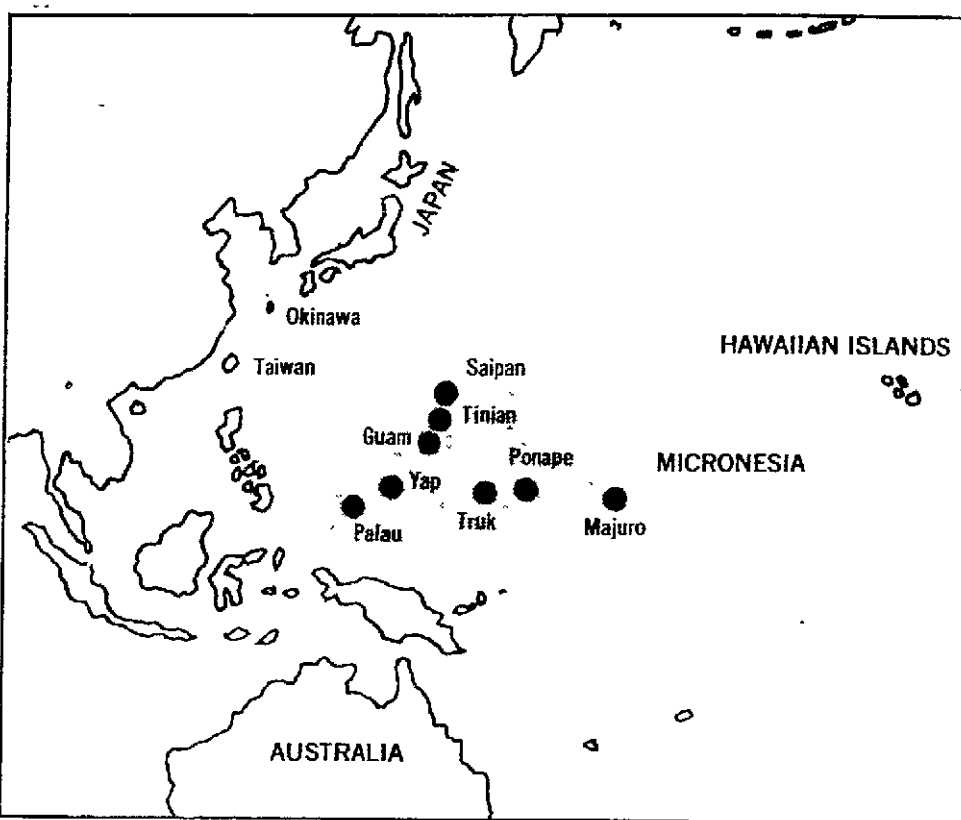

Tinian, for example, seven miles south of Saipan, is where the "Enola Gay" and "Bock's Car" took off from. They were the two B-29's which on Aug. 6 and Aug. 9, 1945, thundered down the same runway, to drop an atomic bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Today, Tinian still retains the B-29 runways but instead of thousands of Air Force GI's, it boasts only 700 natives who occupy the 39-square-mile island.

Since the U.S. returned Okinawa to the Japanese, however, the Pentagon wants to build a $300 million base on Tinian. The Japanese want no nuclear weapons stored even temporarily on their territory. Conditions in South Korea where we have a nuclear arsenal are unstable. Tinian, therefore, would make an ideal nuclear base.

100-year lease

Under a recent agreement, however, the U.S. will delay construction of the base. The pact calls for payment of around $19.5 million for a 100-year lease on 18,000 acres of the Marianas for military use. Further, the islands are to achieve Commonwealth status within the United States such as Puerto Rico enjoys. Under the circumstances, the 15,000 residents of the Marianas would become U.S. citizens, and the U.S. would take over the islands as an American territory and do with them what we think best.

Map of Micronesia shows key points in the Pacific islands and relationship to Japan and Hawaii. It's 1262 miles from Tokyo to Guam and 3318 from Guam to Honolulu.

19 mg. "tar", 1.3 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC method.

Before this becomes a fait accompli, however, the Marianas have to agree to it by referendum, the U.S. Congress has to consent, and the whole deal has to be ratified by the U.N. Security Council.

For 28 years the United States has put major injections of money into the Micronesia Trust Territory but with scant design and philosophy, so that many of the islanders have developed little or no industry and simply exist from day to day on handouts.

One American company that has tried to turn Micronesia into a tourist attraction is Continental Airlines, which helped pioneer the island air routes and which has constructed modern hotels on Saipan, Guam, Truk, and Palau.

Plenty of room

Continental is selling Micronesia as a new, unspoiled, undeveloped vacationland, a land not built around tourists but one in which tourists are welcome to enjoy the simple pleasures of a tropical island vacation—fishing, diving, sunbathing, snorkeling, scuba diving, hiking, swimming, sailing, exploring, and island-hopping.

Continental has erected a 200-air-conditioned-room hotel on Guam which has been U.S. territory since 1898, and Guam is rapidly developing into another Honolulu, with high rise hotels, golf courses, tennis courts, country clubs, and thousands of Japanese tourists. But the Trust Territory islands are not large enough for such major tourist incursions and therefore remain relatively native and unspoiled.

Saipan, largest of the northern Marianas, about 15 miles long and five miles wide, with about 12,000 people, is getting a new $6 million airport and is being touted as the next tourist-boom island, with non-stop flights from Tokyo in the planning stage.

It is Japanese tourism rather than American tourism that is expected to create a vacation belt extending thousands of miles across the Pacific.

A Continental Airlines spokesman says "By 1980 we expect that 8 million Japanese will depart from Japan on vacation every year. Now, most of the overseas travelers head for Hawaii and Guam to get a little sun. Their next big tourist target, we expect, will be Saipan, which is frankly why we've put up a seven-story resort hotel there. We expect that by 1985, the annual vacation exodus from Japan will involve some 25 million Japanese."

Double package

"What we're trying to sell the Americans, however, are two packages—a separate vacation to Micronesia, hopping from one island to another, or if they're planning a trip to the Orient, either going to or coming from Hong Kong or Tokyo—then we want them to stop off en route and see a good deal of Micronesia including Saipan, Truk, Palau, Yap, Ponape—lands that aren't going to remain native too much longer."

For information on the islands of Micronesia, write Chief of Tourism, Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, Saipan, Mariana Islands 96950.

Dr. Jean Gretsche, 53, reassures a patient; after rearing eight children, she began medical school. She hopes to open her own office at home this year.

How a Mother of 8 Became a Doctor

by Theodore Irwin

NEWTOWN, CONN.

Can a mother of eight realistically go back to school and launch a medical career?

"It's never too late," insisted 53-year-old Jean Gretsche when she completed her internship last June. "All you need is determination, dedication, durability and an understanding husband and family."

Dr. Gretsche is confident she can practice medicine while running her home. "I never stop to think I'm 53—I see 20 years of medical practice ahead of me."

"There is a place for mature persons, especially women, in medical school. If they have the courage to face the tasks demanded, the calendar should be ignored. But don't think that carving out a late-blooming career is a cinch."

After 25 years

No, it wasn't easy for Jean Gretsche, nor in fact was it really late-blooming. Way back when she was 12 in Louisville, Ky., where she lived near a medical school, Jean dreamed of becoming a doctor. Later, after finishing a premed course, lack of money kept her from going on. "So I dropped out for 25 years," Dr. Gretsche recalls.

There was a hitch as a WAC officer in World War II, marriage, and the birth of eight children. When her youngest was old enough to enter school Mrs. Gretsche decided to give medicine another whirl.

Fortunately, no problem arose with her husband, Richard, then a utility company division manager.

So Mrs. Gretsche took a few brush-up courses at a nearby state college. Then came three years of premed at Columbia in New York and commuting five hours a day while maintaining her roles as mother and wife.

When her applications to medical schools were turned down repeatedly because of her age, the resolute Jean Gretsche took the face-to-face route. Finally, visiting the Medical College of Pennsylvania she was accepted—"miraculously." During the four-year stretch there Mrs. Gretsche spent many weekends driving home to Newtown—383 miles door-to-door—to make sure her family was well cared for by her two eldest daughters and an unemployed teacher.

While Dr. Gretsche concedes that medical school was tough and her goal in retrospect seemingly impossible to reach, she never considered quitting. "What it boils down to," she remarks, "is that you can do anything you set your mind to. Once you start, it's much easier to keep going."

It took, obviously, a lot of energy and stamina, qualities Jean Gretsche attributes to genes she inherited. "And when you're absolutely fascinated with medicine, as I was," she adds, "this fortifies you to accept all the setbacks and make the sacrifices."

Chief among the sacrifices was the time spent away from her family.

"Only medicine could have made me inconvenience or disrupt my family. Of course, I had a tremendous guilt complex and still feel guilty. But if I hadn't gone ahead—and maybe I'm rationalizing—I'd be a totally frustrated and neurotic mother and grandmother, no good at all to my husband and children."

The children—two sons, six daughters—range in age from 12-year-old Molly to Fred, 28. Four are married. Occasionally Dr. Gretsche gets to see her four grandchildren. "Once in a while is enough," she comments. "I feel their parents don't want grandma to hover."

Children proud

The Gretsche clan seems to have taken their mother's new role in stride. Stacy, a 23-year-old local bank employee, told PARADE:

"It's great and we're thrilled that mother's a doctor. Sure, it's been a sacrifice all around, for each of us. What counts is that she's happy in her work."

Fred, 28, a financial analyst: "When Mom tried getting into med school I watched her really fight society's bias against age... Her being away so much wasn't so bad because we were all brought up to be self-sufficient."

Patricia, 20, a college student, confessed: "At times mother wasn't there when I wanted her, but I was being selfish. Med school was what she needed."

As for her husband, Richard, Dr. Gretsche considered herself lucky in that he's been a "wonderful, stabilizing influence." Now retired, he serves on the Governor's Commission for Industrial Development and keeps active in other fields.

"We live our separate lives together," the doctor explains. "We respect each other's interests, he goes his way and I go mine, yet we never lose touch and we're very much in love. He may be disappointed that no one is home to fix his lunch but he does take pride in me and my profession."

The Gretsche home, now occupied by the parents, and Patricia and Molly, is a sprawling 17-room house with two huge porches and spacious lawns.

At home and away, currently Jean Gretsche leads two lives: as manager of her household and as Dr. Gretsche, a physician continuing her residency at a hospital in Bridgeport, 18 miles away.

Happiest at work

Social life? She doesn't miss it. She doesn't have to relax, Dr. Gretsche insists, because she's doing what she likes. "My vocation is my avocation and I'm never happier than when I'm working my head off."

Dr. Gretsche serves her one-year residency at St. Vincent's, a 339-bed community hospital affiliated with Yale Medical School. Leaving home before 7 in the morning she drives 40 minutes to the Bridgeport hospital, supposedly stops work at 5 p.m. but often doesn't get home until 7.

At least one night a week and every third weekend she remains on call—a marathon 33½-hour shift from 7:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. the following day. She admits it gets her down, as it does 25-year-old residents, but still regards her residency as "a breeze." Driving home she has time to think about what she's experienced and what she's approaching, then "changes hats."

"Now and then," the doctor admits, "when I'm especially tired, I'm aware of my age. Yet I think the same and sound the same. Still, it's a little hard to understand what happens to the clay surrounding me. While I live in a body that should be deteriorating, in every other way I feel as I did at 20."

When her year-long residency is completed Dr. Gretsche will open an office at home this year as a GP. In her view, general practice—primary care—is "the name of the game, what people need most."

Wants to help people

Ask Jean Gretsche why she has gone into medicine and she'll tell you it's to help people. "I think I'm better equipped than younger physicians because I have more years of experience in living."

While conceding that many mature women can't come out of their cocoon and do what she did, Dr. Gretsche has some advice for those considering a late-starting career:

"Forget your birthday. You're every bit a person at 50 as you were at half your age. Go after what you want to do so that you respect yourself as an individual. But you shouldn't do it casually—you have to really burn with desire for that career. And don't ever think that making it will be a snap."

The family (except for two grandchildren) attends Dr. Gretsche's graduation.

Keeping Up... With Youth

by Pamela Swift

THE THINKING MAN'S TENNIS STAR

Newest Tennis Great

To the growing list of great, young, handsome tennis players, add the name of Guillermo Vilas, 22, the Argentinian southpaw who conquered John Newcombe and Ilie Nastase to win the $100,000 Grand Prix Tennis Tournament in Melbourne last month.

Vilas, who competes in the U.S. pro indoor championships in Philadelphia starting tomorrow, is unusual. "Money," he says, "doesn't mean too much to me." Probably because he's the son of a wealthy Mar del Plata lawyer. "What counts most to me is time—time to read, to listen to music, to write poetry, to relax, to study. I am first my own person, then maybe a tennis player."

Possibly the most intellectual of all the young stars on the tennis pro circuit, Guillermo Vilas (pronounced Ghee-yare-mo Vee-lahs) is a former law school student who dropped out to become Argentina's No. 1 sports celebrity.

Tall—5 feet 11, 165 pounds, with chestnut eyes, long brown hair held back by a headband—Vilas has become the darling of the international tennis crowd. He wears bracelets, medallions, necklaces, good luck charms, speaks a delightful ungrammatical English, makes an eloquent colorful interview. Newspapermen like him because he converses well on a variety of subjects other than tennis. He is aware of the non-tennis world around him.

He began playing tennis when he was 9 at the Club Nautico Mar del Plata, came to Miami at age 17 to play in the Davis Cup circuit, and since 18 has been ranked No. 1 in the Argentine.

Last July, following Wimbledon, Vilas won 54 of 60 matches, took the singles championship at the Canadian Open and Teheran, garnered $95,000 in prize money, then recently went on to win top money of $40,000 in the Grand Prix.

"I know," he concedes, "that it is hard for Americans to believe, but I play tennis for fun. The money is nice, of course, but even if there was no money in it, I would still play tennis."

New Veteran Benefits

If President Ford signs the bill expanding veterans guaranteed home loan benefits—and he may have already—the government will expand the home loan guaranty from $15,000 to $17,500 and remove the limit of one loan per veteran.

This means any veteran who served from the start of World War II to the present date can obtain as many home loans as he seeks providing he has paid off his previous loan. The bill also provides guaranteed loans for veterans who want to purchase condominiums. It also increases the amount of loans for mobile homes.

More Med School Freshmen

There are 114 medical schools in this country. Last fall they accepted 14,763 first-year students, 5 percent more than they accepted in 1973. The number of first-year women rose from 20 percent to 22 percent, the number of blacks from 1023 in 1973 to 1106 in 1974, an increase of 8 percent.

|---------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1 cup pitted prunes             | 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder |
| 1 cup chopped walnuts           | 1/4 teaspoon salt             |
| 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar | 3 eggs, well beaten           |
| 3/4 cup all-purpose flour       |                               |

Chop prunes. Add to chopped nuts with brown sugar, flour, baking powder and salt. Mix. Fold into well-beaten eggs. Spread in greased 9-inch square pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool in pan 5 to 10 minutes. Cut into 24 pieces (1 inch by 3 inches). Roll in confectioners (powdered) sugar if desired. Makes 24 bars.

Two Eligible Millionaires

HEIRESS BARBARA HUTTON

WEALTHY MATES

If you're looking for a wealthy mate, here are some encouraging Internal Revenue Service statistics. There are 347,000 unmarried men and 868,000 unmarried women in the U.S., each with a net worth of more than $100,000. There are 11,000 men and 27,000 women each worth more than a million dollars. And there are 800 men and 2000 women, each with holdings in excess of 5 million.

Of these affluent Americans, 40,000 men and 55,000 women are under 40, and more than half have never been married.

The largest number of wealthy people reside in New York, California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas. But the wealthiest live in Rhode Island, Vermont, Michigan, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Florida.

CANCER IMMUNITY

One of the most intriguing theories about cancer holds that it's genetic, that all of us are born with the cancer virus, that in fact some process of cancer is responsible for the tremendous growth of the human embryo to infant.

The theory holds further that at birth the cancer virus becomes inoperative, only to start up many years later when the body's defense mechanisms are old and tired, weak and unable to defeat the various carcinogenic substances seeking to stimulate the long-dormant cancer virus.

Mormons and Seventh-Day Adventists, who neither smoke nor drink and make it a rule to lead clean, healthy, wholesome lives, die of cancer at half the rate of other people—at least in California.

Dr. James Enstrom, of the UCLA School of Public Health, and Dr. Roland Phillips, of Loma Linda University in California have discovered that the cancer rate for Mormons and Seventh-Day Adventists is 50 to 70 percent lower than the cancer rate for all of California, depending on the cancer site.

Seventh-Day Adventists, for the most part, are vegetarians. Good practicing Mormons generally refrain from strong drink, coffee, and excess eating. Both groups stress moderation, exercise, peace of mind, and healthy emotional attitudes. What effect does such a life-style have upon the incidence of cancer?

Dr. Enstrom believes it has a beneficial effect, that it is responsible for the decrease in cancer deaths. Other researchers are not sure, although they agree that the number of Mormon and Seventh-Day Adventist cancer deaths are far lower than the national average. In Utah, for example, there are one-third more cancer deaths among non-Mormons than among Mormons.

Apparently a healthy life-style, including a well-balanced diet, plenty of exercise, no alcohol or tobacco or obesity plus the daily thinking of pleasant thoughts, keeps that cancer virus locked up in its casing. That's the theory anyway. Seems to work for Mormons and Seventh-Day Adventists.

INTEREST RATES

Commercial banks are now allowed to pay 7.5% interest on certificates of deposit over a period of six years or longer. Savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks are allowed to pay 7.75% over the same term. Minimum denominations of the certificates are $1000.

The objective is to attract more capital into the savings institutions for home mortgage lending, but the increased rates may cause further upward pressure on mortgage interest rates.

ZIEGLER'S PROPHECY

"Do you know where I will be on Jan. 20, 1977? I will be standing on the inaugural stand with the President of the United States (Nixon) as the new President takes his oath of office. I will look out over those stands and see all of the people. And I will know that I have seen a man under vicious attack show the courage and strength to last it out...he will go out with dignity."

Ron Ziegler, press secretary to President Richard Nixon, Feb. 24th, 1974, in The Washington Post.

"When we found out what AARP does for people over 55, my wife didn't mind telling her age."

"After a friend of ours told us about the American Association of Retired Persons, I said to my wife, 'Irma, Everybody's having fun but us. Lots of people out there are having a marvelous time and we're sitting home counting the years.' So I picked myself right up and filled out an AARP coupon just like the one on this page. I want to tell you it was the best thing we ever did."

WHAT'S AARP?

AARP is the American Association of Retired Persons or as we like to think of ourselves—The new social security. Non-profit. Non-partisan. An association of more than 6 million people. Anybody who's over 55 can belong. And all it costs to be a member is $2 a year. Which is almost like buying a whole new life for a few cents a week. You can stay home and enjoy it. You can be rich. Poor. Healthy. Not so healthy. It's probably one of the few organizations in the world that offers you the opportunity to give so much of yourself, if you so desire and at the same time provides so many benefits and services. Simply because its one purpose is to help you continue to feel vital, important and involved in every part of life.

WHAT YOU GET

To begin with, you can continue your education. You can fill your leisure time with hundreds of new meaningful activities. At home. Or outside. You can meet new people. Make your voice heard in government. Be assured of reasonable prices on medicines, travel, on many of the necessities of life including health insurance. You'll receive two fine publications written just for you. In other words, you're going to have fun again and find that life is more than just a way to pass time.

DON'T STOP LEARNING

AARP's Institute of Lifetime Learning offers a full program of education courses in music appreciation, psychology, creative writing, literature, government, and a variety of other subjects. There are home study courses or you can attend lectures at regional centers around the country.

BE REPRESENTED IN GOVERNMENT

AARP's legislative program represents your interest with state legislatures and Congress. Its 33-point program is a Bill of Rights for all older persons retired or not. We let you know what's happening. So that you can know about all of the legislation put through on your behalf, and what remains to be accomplished.

FEEL BETTER WITH HEALTH INSURANCE

Medicare doesn't cover everything. So one of AARP's most important benefits is eligibility for supplementary Group Health Insurance Plans. They help you to pay for the best medical and surgical treatment, and include a Skilled Nursing Facility and Home-Nursing Care Plan. You'll feel better just having this kind of protection.

PHARMACY SERVICE

Because of the buying power represented by more than 6 million AARP members, AARP makes it possible for you to get over-the-counter and prescription medicine and supplies at realistic prices and have them delivered to your home, postage paid.

GO PLACES

Where would you like to travel? Around the world? Across the country? The AARP recommended travel service can help you do it. You can choose from a wide variety of quality tours and cruises, ranging from luxury to economy, escorted by experienced tour directors. The world is there. All you have to do is go into it.

FEEL LIKE WORKING?

Just because you're retired doesn't mean you can't work. Mature Temps, an AARP recommended service, may be able to help you supplement your retirement income with part-time or temporary employment. There are offices in a number of major metropolitan areas across the country. Just call. Their service is free.

Irma and Peter McNulty

PARTICIPATE IN CHAPTER ACTIVITIES

Chances are there's an AARP Chapter near you. (There are over 1600 of them around the United States). If you'd like to go to a meeting and find out about the inside workings of AARP, just come on over. It's a great way to make our association grow stronger and a fine opportunity for you to meet dozens of vital people your own age.

WANT TO GET INVOLVED?

At Local Chapters you'll have the opportunity to find out about community services in which you can lend a helping hand. You can learn more about the Defensive Driving Courses, the Consumer Information Desk or participate in the Tax Aide Program. Or just meet new friends.

NEED ADVICE?

AARP provides its members with a series of booklets that guide retired people through areas of particular concern. They cover everything from how to get personal help, to health advice, moving, diet, and all the little problems that trouble you from time to time.

WORRIED ABOUT AUTO INSURANCE*?

As an AARP member, you will receive information about how you may be able to actually save money on your auto-insurance with a policy that has guaranteed renewable and limited-cancellation features.

LIKE TO READ?

When you join AARP you automatically receive subscriptions to AARP's official publications, Modern Maturity and the AARP News Bulletin, two publications filled with news and features of special interest to you.

Your annual membership dues of $2 help cover the cost of these publications, which means for as long as you're a member of AARP your magazines will keep coming.

There's so much more to AARP than we have room to tell you here. And really, the best way to find out is to join. The coupon below will enroll you so that you can take advantage of all the AARP benefits and services. There's only one requirement. You have to be 55 or over. We don't think you'll mind telling us if you are.

*Only statutory coverage available in North Carolina, Texas and Massachusetts.

To smoke or not to smoke.

That is the question.

With all the slings and arrows that have been aimed at smoking, you may well be wondering why you smoke at all.

If you don't smoke nobody is urging you to start.

But if you do smoke, you may enjoy it so much you don't want to stop.

There's the rub. Because if you do smoke, what do you smoke?

The cigarettes of the past provided a lot of smoking pleasure but they also delivered a lot of the 'tar' and nicotine the critics have aimed at.

And most of the new wave brands with low 'tar' and nicotine taste like a lot of hot air.

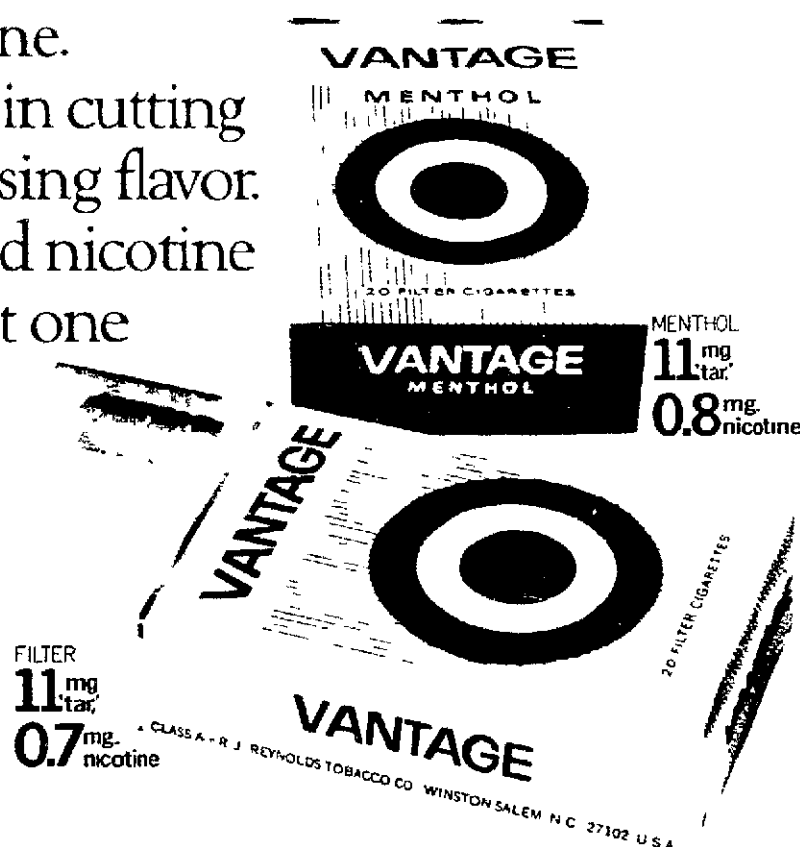

But now Vantage has entered the scene.

Vantage is the cigarette that succeeds in cutting down 'tar' and nicotine without compromising flavor.

While Vantage isn't the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you'll find, it certainly is the lowest one you'll enjoy smoking.

If you smoke, try a pack of Vantage. And if you don't, why not show this ad to someone who does.

It might settle the question.

TOO FEW: A WELL-RUN NURSING HOME

NEEDED: BETTER CARE FOR THE ELDERLY

Man's average life-span in the days of the Roman Empire was 23 years. Today, life expectancy at birth is 71 years for the average American. Ten percent of all Americans, 22 million strong, are 65 or older.

As modern medicine advances, more senior citizens will join the nursing home ranks. "One senior citizen in five," it is estimated by Dr. Robert Kastenbaum in Aging and Human Development, "will spend some time in a nursing home during a lifetime."

Some weeks ago the Senate Subcommittee on Long-Term Care issued a critical report on the nursing home industry. The report criticized federal and state agencies for failing to enforce laws designed to eliminate abuses in nursing homes. Moreover, the report scolded Congress and the executive branch for failing to create a national health care policy.

Herewith some of the committee's findings and recommendations:

1. There are 1 million senior citizens in U.S. nursing homes.
2. Eighty-two is the average age of nursing-home patients. Women patients outnumber men three to one; 96% of nursing home patients are white.

3. Between 50% and 80% of all nursing home patients die in nursing homes. A majority of patients are mentally impaired, also cannot walk. The average nursing home patient takes 4.2 different kinds of medication each day.

4. Average nursing home charges in the U.S. are $600 a month, average Social Security benefits for a retired couple are $310 a month.

5. There are more than three times as many nursing homes (23,000) in the U.S. as hospitals (6630).

6. Of the 815,000 registered nurses in the U.S., only 56,235 work in nursing homes. From 80% to 90% of nursing home care is administered by orderlies.

7. Nursing home inspections by state enforcement agencies are generally a "fraud."

8. Health care should be provided in senior citizens' own homes—aiding more of the elderly and saving taxpayers' dollars.

9. Financial assistance should be given to the children of the elderly so they can care for their parents in their own homes.

10. Gaps in Medicare coverage should be filled by the government.

He is demanding $3750 a ton for his fragrant spice, which is exactly five times what it sold for in 1969. Jumbe claims this will bring into his East African country an additional $2 million in hard currency which will be used to provide free color TV sets for Zanzibar's population.

Because of Human Vanity...

ONLY ONE WEEK TO LIVE

The harp seal—to its extreme misfortune—has a baby so beautiful humans wish to wear its fur. Each spring the migratory seals form two herds, one in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence, the other off the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador. There, literally forming a nursery on the ice floes, the seals give birth to their white, silky-furred pups.

Then, each year Canadian and Norwegian sealers come with their clubs. The nursing seal pups cannot get away—less than one week old, they are too young to swim. Most never do. The pups are clubbed and skinned before their mothers' eyes. The pelts are destined to become luxury furs and leather.

But, the killing cannot go on forever, because the seals will not last. Only 20 years ago there were twice as many as there are today, and the number continues to decline. So far, recommendations to end the killing have been ignored.

Only continued, forceful public opposition can stop this insane killing. The Canadian government has been the target of massive protests since the brutality of the killing became known in the early 1960's. And, Canada has reduced the quotas on seals in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. But, the killing is now concentrated on the seals off the Newfoundland-Labrador coast. Thousands of baby seals will die there this spring with the Norwegians doing much of the killing. Norway too must know we will not condone the brutal destruction of a species and the slaughter of infant animals for the sake of fur and leather garments.

IT'S HERE! FROM BELL & HOWELL SCHOOLS!

A fascinating learn-at-home program that includes this new generation color TV with digital features... you build it yourself!

You learn occupational skills in electronics through experiments and testing as you build a color television that's ahead of its time!

You've seen TV's that swivel, TV's with radios built in. TV's small enough to stuff in a suitcase and TV's that have remote control.

But now comes a color television with features you've probably never seen before. Features now possible as a result of the new applications of digital electronics... features that make Bell & Howell's 25-inch diagonal color TV ahead of its time! You learn about:

Channel numbers that flash big and clear right on the screen. An on-screen digital clock that flashes the time in hours, minutes and seconds with just the push of a button. An automatic channel selector that you pre-set to skip over "dead" channels and go directly to the channels of your choice.

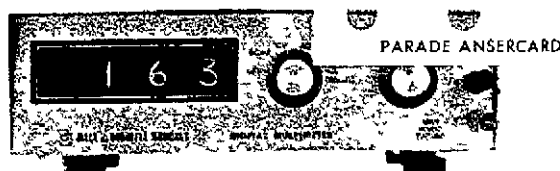

And to insure highest quality TV has silent, all-electronic integrated circuitry, Black Man brighter, sharper picture and 10% longer life and dependability.

Designed exclusively for Bell & Howell Electro-Lab® gives you the "trade," including instruments professionally after you finish the program.

A digital multimeter that measures current and resistance, and display clear numbers. Far more readable "needle pointer" meters that require interpretation.

The solid-state "triggered sweep" oscilloscope is a "must" for accurate analysis of digital circuitry. Includes DC wide-band vertical amplifier and "triggered sweep" feature to lock in signals for easier observation.

We start you off with the basics. You'll receive a special Lab Starter Kit with your first lesson so that you can get immediate "hands on" experience to help you better understand newly-learned electronics principles. Later, you'll use your new knowledge and learn occupational skills as you build the color TV. You can take advantage of our toll-free phone-in assistance service throughout the program and also our in-person "help sessions" held in 50 cities at various times throughout the year where you can "talk shop" with your instructors and fellow students.

Electro-Lab is a registered trademark of the Bell & Howell Company

Pick up occupational skills in electronics that could lead you in exciting new directions!

After you complete this learn-at-home program at Bell & Howell Schools, you'll have the special skills to service color TV's plus the knowledge you can apply to repair a variety of home electronic equipment. No better or more practical training in electronics is available anywhere! These skills could open up new opportunities. Of course, no assurance of income opportunity will be offered. Get the complete story on this new learn-at-home program...the world's first TV course employing digital electronics technology.

my FAVORITE jokes

by paul gilbert

EDITOR'S NOTE: Paul Gilbert was born into a show business family; his parents did a comedy act playing the country's top vaudeville houses and he can recall many of their jokes—like the one his father used to tell on his mother: "I'm not saying how old she is but her driver's license used to read: 'For covered wagons only!'"

When Paul was a student at Wayne State University in Detroit he worked in local clubs to defray his expenses and then decided to build his career around comedy and acting. He's done just that, having performed in the best-known clubs and resorts, acted in movies such as Cat Ballou; appeared on innumerable TV shows, Carson, Griffin, Douglas, etc.

Thinking back on his comedy career Paul says: "One of the most memorable compliments I ever got was from Woody Herman when I was the comedian with his band. I would come out and do an opening fall into the orchestra pit. One night I missed the mattress and knocked myself out cold. After the show Woody said, 'You got a great act, kid, but it's too short.'"

Here are some of Paul Gilbert's jokes and stories:

I'm not saying my wife is a "clothes nut," but everyday she spends three hours in her closet visiting her clothes.

I once had a guard dog that was really vicious. Sent him to training school. It cost $60, but the training works. Now when I say "heel"—that's where he bites me.

The rock band with their electric guitars was so loud the audience gathered together and began to pray for a power failure.

The artist was proudly displaying his latest painting. It was a frame around a completely blank canvas. A prospective buyer inquired: "What's it a painting of?" The artist replied: "A cow eating grass." The customer inquired: "Where's the grass?" The artist replied: "The cow ate it." The customer further inquired: "Where's the cow?" The artist explained: "If there's no grass, why should the cow hang around?"

My wife's a marvelous housekeeper. We got a divorce and she kept the house. No, actually we have three kids. My son is 17 and he's a weirdo. I don't mind if he's a little with it but he's far out. He's got shoulder-length hair, wears patched denim, beads and ripped sandals.

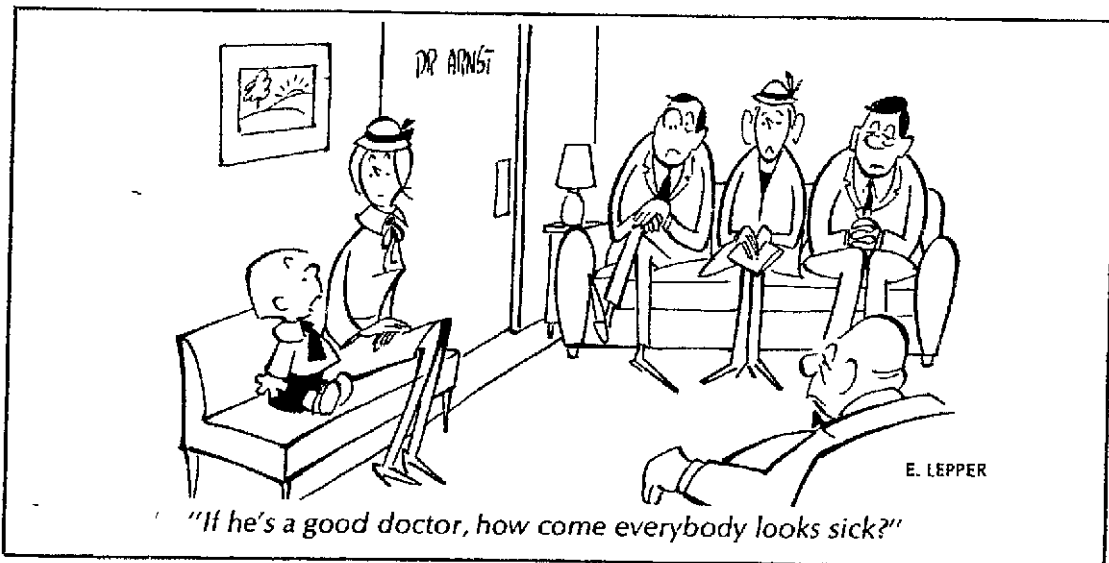

I saw him on the street last night with one shoe on. I said: "What did you do, lose a shoe?" He replied: "No, man, I found one."

I met a man once who was so rich he had Swiss money in American banks.

My favorite department in the supermarket is the bread department. There are so many different types of bread it's hard to choose. When I was a kid we didn't have that problem. There was only two kinds of bread—yesterday's and today's.

I knew a drunk in California who always attracted attention when he staggered erratically down the street. One day there was an earthquake and he was the only one walking straight.

My wife's mother is a great cook. One day it took her three hours to stuff a chicken—she forgot to sew up the other end!

Your Winter-Wearied Complexion Can Soon Look Younger

Can you believe winter has gone on this long? Windy days and chilly nights have strung together in what seems an eternity. One day there's brilliant winter sunlight; the next day sleet and snow. Your spirits are getting a little frayed. And your skin is showing the results of too much winter.

No wonder. During just one day you go between almost arctic outdoor weather and artificial indoor heat countless times. As you shop, run errands, and relax with a little winter sport, it's almost as if you take your face through all the climates of the world in a single day. Of course your skin gets dryer. So you can look older. It's easy to see why. Dryness can make all your little lines and wrinkles far too noticeable.

This winter join the knowledgeable, younger-looking women from many parts of the world who share the secret of a remarkable beauty fluid that helps make a woman look her youngest, no matter what the season. Beauty researchers discovered this unique beauty liquid that eases away the dryness that can make you look older than need be. Discover the skin-smoothing lotion yourself. Here in the United States it is known as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. You will find it at your drugstore.

Skin drinks in Oil of Olay almost as you watch. Smooth it gently on your winter-wearied face. You will be astonished how quickly, completely and deeply the beauty fluid penetrates your skin's all-too-visible surface. And it leaves no greasy after-feel. Your skin begins to grow softer, smoother and more supple from the very first days you use Oil of Olay. Your complexion feels silkier and looks decidedly younger.

Oil of Olay, with its wealth of pure moisture, along with tropical oils and other emollients, cooperates with nature in maintaining the oil-moisture balance needed if you're to look your youngest. The skin-compatible fluid acts like the skin's own moisture in relieving dryness. Oil of Olay helps keep your own natural moisture in the most visible layer of skin, where it can work effectively.

Dedicated users apply Oil of Olay at least twice each day during any season. In the morning, as a near-perfect makeup base that protects your complexion and lets cosmetics stay fresh for hours. At bedtime, to smooth and silken skin during hours of sleep. During winter, however, you may want to use Oil of Olay even more often, whenever skin feels rough or dry.

Even though the calendar says it's winter, with Oil of Olay you can let your skin feel that it's living in a moist and misty never-ending spring.

Winter Beauty Secrets

In winter, your skin can scarcely get enough Oil of Olay. Tuck a bottle into your purse or tote bag so you'll never be caught without its soothing help when needed.

* * *

Long, hot baths are warming and relaxing after a busy winter day. These quiet moments are ideal for your skin to absorb Oil of Olay® effortlessly.

YES, MA'AM,
I'M READY...

FOR MY NATURE REPORT
TODAY, I AM BRINGING YOU AN EXCLUSIVE!

ROCK SNAKES!!

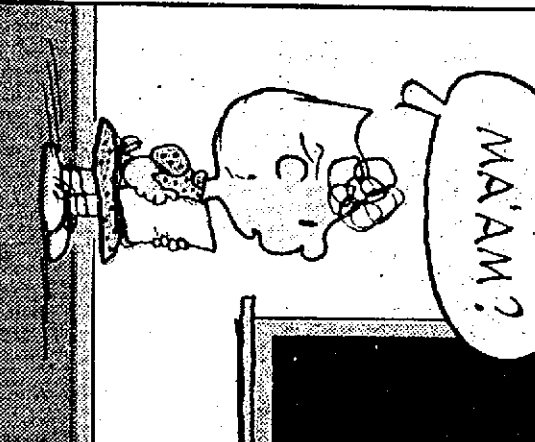

WHAT, YOU MAY ASK, IS A ROCK
SNAKE? THAT IS A GOOD QUESTION!
A ROCK SNAKE IS A SNAKE THAT SNEAKS UP BEHIND YOU AND THROWS A ROCK AT YOU!

NOW, HERE IS MY EXCLUSIVE...IT USED TO BE THOUGHT THAT ROCK SNAKES WERE DANGEROUS, BUT MY AUTHORITY SAYS THIS IS NOT SO...

A ROCK SNAKE CANNOT THROW VERY HIGH, YOU SEE, SO THEREFORE, ALL HE CAN DO IS HIT YOU ON THE BACK OF THE LEG...SO SAYS MY AUTHORITY!

MA'AM?

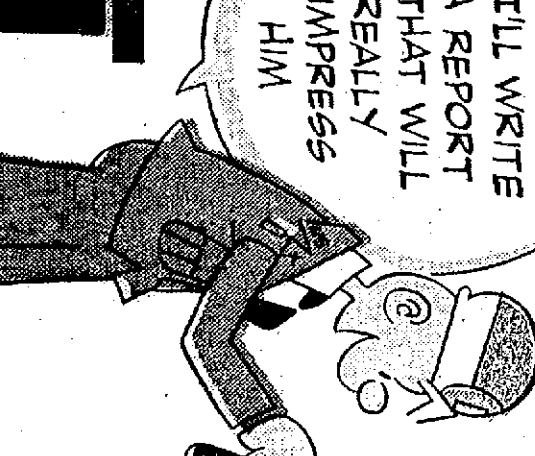

LINUS VAN PELT...
YES, MA'AM...

SHE SAID SHE REMEMBERS YOU FROM WHEN YOU WERE IN HER CLASS!

SHEEP were one of the most important animals on the old homestead. Not only did they provide meat, but wool for clothing as well. Today many new homesteaders are rediscovering the value of spinning their own wool. The fun and challenge of spinning wool has been revived in the larger cities, with many spinning clubs being formed. Raw wool and the basic tools for spinning may be purchased from larger craft and hobby supply stores.

① The first step is to clean and card the wool. While many people prefer to wash it first, others prefer not to wash it as the grease makes spinning easier.

Although spinning wheels seem more traditional for spinning wool, the simple Hopi or drop spindle is the easiest method of spinning for the beginner.

④ Sit on the floor and place the spindle on your thigh. Gently roll the spindle, twisting the fleece into a thin strand of yarn and gently drawing the yarn out of the roll as you spin with the spindle. When you reach the end of the roll, twist on another and start spinning the spindle again.

When the top of the spindle is full of spun wool have someone help you wind the wool into skeins and tie the finished skein so it won't become tangled. Now you're ready to dye and weave the wool.

It's Like Having Auto Factory Experts Right Beside You...

1975

HOW TO FIX ALMOST ANY CAR

2300 Models from 1969-1975

Now — Whether You're a Beginner or a Skilled Mechanic —
You Can "Breeze Through" Almost ANY Auto Repair,
Save Scarce Gasoline by Expert Tuning

SUPPOSE you had an automobile factory engineer standing right beside you — guiding your hands through every step of even the toughest car repair jobs! Think how you'd "whiz through" every job!

No wonder tens of thousands of beginners and expert mechanics alike always rely on the MOTOR AUTO REPAIR MANUAL. It shows you in step-by-step words and pictures all the factory approved repair procedures you'll ever need for fixing practically ANY part of ANY car listed here—1969 through 1975.

No "guesswork"! MOTOR's MANUAL "starts from scratch" — tells you what tools to use, leads you through the entire job with easy directions, crystal-clear pictures. You CAN'T go wrong!

This NEWEST MOST UP-TO-DATE and LARGEST Edition ever published covers everything you need to know to fix practically any car model from 1969 thru 1975, including all compacts and "in-between" cars! Over 1,400 giant pages 3,000 "This is-How" pictures! Hundreds of "Quick-Check" charts 55,000 essential repair specifications. Over 225,000 service and repair facts. Plus tune-up and front-end alignment on all car models from 1945 through 1968.

Even a green beginner mechanic can do a good job with this giant MANUAL before him. And if you're a top-notch mechanic, you'll value highly the time-saving and work-cutting procedures you'll find. No wonder this guide is used by the U.S. Army and Navy! No wonder hundreds of thousands of men call it the "Auto Repair Man's Bible"!

Engineers from each automobile plant in America worked out these time-saving procedures for their own motor car line. Now the editors of MOTOR have gathered together this wealth of "Know How" from 300 Official Shop Manuals and hundreds of Factory Bulletins "boiled it down" into crystal clear terms in one big handy book!

MOTOR's MANUAL will keep you rolling when others are out of gas—or can't find a station open to get them started. It shows how to get more gas mileage by keeping a well-tuned motor. What to do when your car won't start on a cold day (only three things and one is sure to work). And much much more.

Not only do you get the latest up-to-the minute "how-to" information on each of the cars listed here — you also get service data on Transmissions, Engine Bearings, Alternators, Fuel Pumps, Ignition Systems, Overdrives, Automatic Transmissions, Engines, Brakes, Valves, Rings, Water Pumps, Distributors, Dash Gauges, Starting Motors, Carburetors, Front End Suspensions, Steering Gears, etc.

PLUS Factory Specifications and Adjustment Tables. General Engine Service Chapter. Picture Guides to Carburetor Overhaul and Power Unit Overhaul. . . much much more! In addition, a special big Trouble Shooting Section and detailed trouble shooting information throughout helps you spot the cause of any of 4,200 car troubles in a jiffy.

You'll learn all about the new 1975 cars. And because auto makers are continually improving adjustments and specs on older cars as new road test data comes in, you'll find the latest information on your old car in the 75 Manual. So, whether you own a new '75 or an older model, you'll need this newest, most complete, 1975 edition, to get the best performance out of your car.

Just mail the coupon today and we'll rush a copy of the new, most up to date 1975 MOTOR AUTO REPAIR MANUAL to your home or shop. TRY this brand new edition for 10 full days and see for yourself what a time-saver and a work-saver this new manual is. If this book doesn't pay for itself in the first 10 days, just return it and pay nothing. Don't delay, mail coupon today.

I find Motor's Manual worth the money. The book is excellent for a beginner as well as an informed man. Bernard H. Hils (Mechanic) Austin, Texas

It is hard to beat for Motor it would have all ended on the spot. I now depend more than ever on Motor Book. — Jerry Zoda (Station Owner) Marion, Indiana

"I've been in the Service Station for the last 25 years. We would be lost without the help of our Motor Manual. Get a Motor Manual and you won't be afraid to tackle any job." F. J. Brennan (Station Owner) Seattle, Wash.

With the help of Motor's Manual I've been in the automobile industry. Motor's Manual makes it easy to keep the pace. Dave F. Feltner (Mechanic), Windber, Penna.

Thanks for putting out an extremely good book. Last summer I made over $4,500.00 on repair work alone. Motor helped me many times out of tight spots. Dick Hollingshead (Owner) Ogden, Iowa
